Foiled Holdup Ends in Chase

A rearing, high-speed chase through downtown streets climaxed a holdup attempt at a city grocery last night which was foiled by a 16-year-old girl clerk.

Streets were still clogged with the last of the rush-hour traffic when the fugitive car careened through the centre of town hotly pursued by a police officer.

Joan Midlane, 1621 Jubilee, was tending the Palm Grocery Store at Bay and Blanshard for Mrs. E. L. Askew at 5:30 p.m. when the bandit pointed a gun at her stomach and demanded money.

MAN CHARGED

Police arrested a 21-year-old Esquimalt man last night and said he will be charged with attempted robbery this morning.

The stocky, blonde teen-ager turned up safely as a massive hunt was being mobilized by sheriff's officers, FBI agents and local police. No trace of the kidnapper had been found.

City Man In Midst Of Revolt

A former Colonist reporter who learned his political footwork from two nimble B.C. premiers may need all his agility today to dance his way out of an Ethiopian coup in which he seems to be on the losing side.

Percy C. Richards, one-time executive assistant to Liberal premiers Byron I. Johnson and the late John Hart, is managing editor of a newspaper which is linked politically to deposed Emperor Haile Selassie.

But in Victoria a former confidante of the "Lion of Judah" who asked that he remain anonymous said the apparent victim of the so-far bloodless coup d'état may have masterminded the whole incident himself.

This would put Mr. Richards on the winning side.

NO SUCCESS

The Colonist's informant said that for many years the emperor has been plagued by the thought that there are no firm laws of succession in Ethiopia which would maintain his family's reign.

In the coup which took place yesterday while the emperor is visiting Brazil he was deposed by his son, Crown Prince Asfa Wossan.

OLD FOX

"It might well be that the old fox has told his son to take control while he was out of the country, and thus ensure that the post of emperor remains in his family," said the informant.

Mr. Richards is managing editor of the "Voice of Ethiopia," a patriotic organ which is published in English and Amharic and which news closely to the Halle Selassie regime's national policies.

NO DANGER

As such, according to such experts on Ethiopian affairs as Dr. Neil Perry, governor of the Ethiopian state bank from 1954 to 1956 and now head of UBC's commerce faculty, he is

Belgians Hail Newlyweds

BRUSSELS (AP)—King Baudouin of Belgium wed Dona Fabiola of Spain today, giving this nation of 9,000,000 its first queen in 25 years.

At 9 a.m. (midnight PST) a lackey in regal red and gold livery marched into the throne room of the Brussels palace and cried out:

• "Le roi, de koning."

In French and Flemish, the two languages of Belgium, it meant—"the king."

With that as his signal, 30-year-old Baudouin stepped through a beige and gold door. On his arm was Dona Fabiola de Moray Aragon, a quiet but gifted Spanish noblewoman, tw years his senior.

PRESS BUZZER

The first thing I could think of was to press the buzzer," she said.

The buzzer is used to summon Mrs. Askew, who lives in a house behind the store.

Mrs. Lawrie Carroll, 840 Bay, visiting her mother, Mrs. Askew, said she answered the buzzer call and met Miss Midlane at the store's rear door.

"Joan said there was a robber. I went into the store and then chickened out and called to my husband Lawrie, but by the time he came the man had gone out," Mrs. Carroll said.

The brown paper bag was found about 10 feet from the store's front door.

Enclosed please find $2. I would like to make it more but I am only a pensioner. I hope this will help a little." The note was unsigned.

Every list of contributions to the Colonist's 500 Christmas Fund contains a number of small donations. In many cases they are from pensioners and people with limited incomes. Most of them could use the money they donate themselves but would rather give to see that the Victoria area's 500 most needy families are looked after.

This spirit of giving by those who have little to those who have less plays an important part in the Christmas Fund being the great success it has been since it was started five years ago.

Through the efforts of individuals like these, each of the 500 needy families chosen through the area's welfare agencies last year received $20.95. The cheques arrived in plenty of time to allow purchases of the few extras that mean so much at Christmas.

Son Overthrows Haile Selassie

LONDON (AP)—A new Ethiopian government under Emperor Haile Selassie's son was formed Wednesday at Addis Ababa while the King of Kings was thousands of miles away on a state visit to Brazil.

The new regime was proclaimed by Crown Prince Asfa Wossan, 44, as a means to end "3,000 years of injustice."

The announcement broadcast from Addis Ababa left in doubt the future of Haile Selassie, the bearded Coptic Christian known also as "The Holy Lion of Judah." He mounted the LONDON (AP)—Ethiopia's new government Thursday banned the flight of all aircraft into the country in an apparent bid to prevent the return of Emperor Haile Selassie.

After the civil ceremony, Baudouin and Fabiola proceeded to the Gothic Church of Saints Michel and Gudule as thousands cheered along packed streets decorated with Belgian and Spanish flags.

Arbitrators Unanimous

By IAN STREET

Unanimous ruling of a three-man arbitration board yesterday that some 820 Greater Victoria school teachers receive no salary increase for 1961 was hailed with delight by trustees and municipal officials.

The board—chairman O. M. Prentice, teacher nominee J. Alan Baker and trustee nominee W. R. McIntyre—deliberated for little more than 24 hours before handing down its findings. The ruling doesn't affect normal salary increments.

It said the present salary scale for teachers is "adequate and fair" for 1961 bearing in mind existing conditions and arguments advanced by both sides in the salary dispute.

Teachers during the arbitration hearing Monday and Tues-

Matter of Attitude

"It was more a matter of time" on salaries, were quietly jubilant. They resisted the temptation to rub salt into the wound, but one said:

"Teachers asked for more money—and got what they deserved."

School board chairman W. C. Gelling said simply that "we are most gratified the arbitration board saw fit to support us in what we honestly believe is the right course for 1961."

He said a "tremendous amount" of credit must go to trustees Kenneth Leesing for the work he did as chairman of the salary committee in presenting the case for the school board.

'Very Just Decision'

Mayor Percy Scurrah offered congratulations to the arbitrators on reaching what "to my mind is a very just decision. They are absolutely right—there is nothing to justify the increase asked by teachers. The fact that no raise was given will be a tremendous help to municipalities in the coming year."

The mayor said he felt taxpayers had "reached the limit of their ability to pay in the present economic situation."

Reeve George Chatterton of Saanich said he hoped the arbitration ruling would "be a reply to all labor groups and unions" seeking wage increases. He said the fact that no raise was given will be a tremendous help to municipalities in the coming year.

"I'm sure that I speak for property owners when I say that the result is most gratifying."

Alsbury Wins Easily In Vancouver Vote

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Tom Alsbury was re-elected Wednesday to his second term as mayor, winning more votes than his five opponents combined.

Fate of the city airport was in doubt. Referendum to sell it to Ottawa was slightly below the 60 per cent majority.

With G. E. Mortimore

A NOTHER store in Victoria has folded up. This time it is Vincent's Appliances on Yates Street near Douglas.

"We've gone into voluntary bankruptcy," proprietor Jack Vincent told me last night.

Mr. Vincent's three-year-old firm has attracted plenty of attention with clever circus-style merchandising.

In its annual Hawaiian sale, it placed color advertisements in perfumed ink, gave away orchids and pineapple juice, staged marathon broadcasts from the store.

These gimmicks drew thousands of customers. They have sold many thousands of dollars' worth of washing machines, refrigerators and electric stoves.

But the purple ink of the advertisements couldn't wash away the red ink of the balance sheet.

People just aren't buying enough refrigerators and washing machines to keep the smaller and more vulnerable stores in business.

"Take a look at the B.C. Electric dealer reports," said Jack Vincent. "From October 1959 to October 1960, Vancouver Island appliance sales dropped from $512,893 to $325,019. That's a decline of nearly 40 per cent."

"The November figures aren't in yet, but I believe they're even worse."

"This is the main reason why we're going out of business. High costs, competition forcing markets down to a point where you're making no money at all—it leaves you no alternative but to go out of business."

"We worked hard to make the store a success, and did as much as we could."

Vincent's is the second sizeable home goods store in Victoria to go out of business within a few weeks.

Recent failure was Gené Wassermaan's Furniture City on Broad Street. Gené also worked hard to pull in customers with come-hither merchandising stunts. He was off the beaten track. But Vincent's was right on a main thoroughfare.

I've heard reports of one or two other firms—in different lines of business—which have folded up, or might do so. But when I telephone the homes or the managers or proprietors, I get an answer from a spectral female voice which says: "This is a recording. The number you have reached is out of service."

It's hard luck on those who have failed. But nobody needs to fly into a panic. There will be more business for those who remain. Times are tougher than they were. Yet there still are plenty of people around with spare money in their pockets, which they can be coaxed to spend. At least, so I'm told.

Your Good Health

Upside-Down Stomach
Highly Technical Issue

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, MD
"Dear Dr. Molner: My doctor tells me I have an 'upside-down stomach.' Would you explain this? What should I do? B.C.G."

This term is used, with some reason, I grant, for a rather large hiatus hernia, or for the situation which results from a defect in the left leaf (or left part) of the diaphragm. With some charts and a lot of words, I could make clear precisely what this is all about. But for practical purposes, would you forgive me if I say that you'd probably be bored by the explanation before I got through?

The degree and type of this condition can vary to such an extent that the only sensible advice I can give is to do what your doctor says. He's spent some years learning the precise meaning. But you, I am sure, would rather be told what will help you, than to spend a lot of time learning technicalities.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband will not go to a doctor. He has had persistent mouth sores for over a year, white, spotty places that hurt when eating acid foods. He has experimented and found they are caused by smoking—one cigar or a pack of cigarettes a day will start it. If he quits for a week, they stop. What I would like to know is can you shed some light on this from what I've told you? Could these spots turn into cancer? Is his system lacking in something or has he just built up this reaction to tobacco? — Mrs. V. B."

Why should your husband go to a doctor? He knows what ails him. He just hasn't got what it takes to do what the doctor would tell him to do. There—I've saved you the price of an office call.

Dear Dr. Molner: Not since my primary school days has it ever been necessary for me to have an enema. I was so regular. However, last spring I was confined to bed for four weeks and my mother-in-law came to care for me. As I awakened each morning, almost immediately she had that enema bag ready—for 26 consecutive days.

"Now I find myself reaching for it automatically. My husband scolds me and tells me to leave nature alone. My sister also tells me I am killing off normalcy and will be dependent on this artificial had much of an opportunity to show what he can do with this business of no rights of succession and this is probably the only way he can do it."

SIMILAR TO KAMLOOPS

Meanwhile Dr. Perry said from Vancouver that Ethiopia was physically very similar to the Kamloops area of B.C. and had a very agreeable climate. Coffee grows wild in the mainly-agricultural country.

"There's very little industrialization and much of the commerce is run by Italians who remained after the occupation," he said. "The Ethiopians themselves are experts in their own primitive type of agriculture."

HART'S SECRETARY

Mr. Richards was indirectly associated with Dr. Perry during their time together in Ethiopia.

Mr. Richards resigned as a Colonist reporter in 1936 to become secretary to Mr. Hart, then minister of finance.

He later became executive assistant when Mr. Hart was appointed premier and continued in a similar capacity

Lion of Judah Overthrown

In São Paulo, Brazil, the emperor said he was "perfectly calm" and that everything was normal when he heard from home this morning. He will fly home this afternoon, it was reported.

Addis Ababa radio said parliament has been dissolved.

The radio quoted from a communiqué setting out aims of the new regime as raising the standard of living, advancing industry and training the nation's young men for responsible posts. It said foreign capital would remain untouched.

The crown prince, eldest son of 68-year-old Selassie, said the new regime is backed by the army and the police. He did not give the precise composition of the new government but said it would include himself, the army and "educated Ethiopians."

Much of the brief radio announcement was devoted to claims, attributed to the crown-prince, that Ethiopians were being held back from achieving prosperity.

LONG TIME

"The people of Ethiopia have waited for a long time with patience in the hope that they will be free some day of oppression, poverty and ignorance."

"But empty promises can no longer satisfy the people who now want concrete action, aimed at improving their standard of living."

"The laws and regulations of the country have been abused to deprive the common people of their rights and privileges in order to boost the riches of the favored few."

BACK TO SOLOMON

Selassie traces his ancestry back to King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba. His country has been independent almost continuously since the 11th century B.C. Its people are Coptic Christians and the emperor's name is translated "Power of the Holy Trinity."

He was named Ras (prince) Tafari Makonnen by his father, viceroy to the throne, and became governor of a province at 18. He was regent in the 1920s and had to fight and conspire to gain the throne. In 1928 he led troops that killed Empress Zauditu's husband, who was not of royal blood.

WINNING OUT

In 1930 he ascended to the throne after winning out over other feudal barons. He abolished slavery, gave his country a constitution and parliament but declared his own power indisputable.

BRITISH STEEL

The United Kingdom's steel output in 1960 is likely to surpass the forecast of 24,300,000 tons.

JOHN CHASE

Motorcycle constables John Isaacs and Albert Harwood joined Det. Blackstock in the chase.

He was driving along Blanshard and Kings when he heard the radio report from Const. Ramsey and saw the fleeing car.

BETWEEN 80, 90

He said he had to travel between 80 and 90 miles an hour to keep the car in sight during the chase.

"If there had been another man with me we could have stopped him much faster and caught him in the car," he said.

BOGUS BILLS

Det. Blackstock found the fugitive car parked between two houses on South Turner after being driven from the street over the curb and sidewalk.

WINNING OUT

He said he had to travel between 80 and 90 miles an hour to keep the car in sight during the chase.

"If there had been another man with me we could have stopped him much faster and caught him in the car," he said.

VANCOUVER—A policeman accused of attempted murder said he was going crazy trying to take care of his five children while his wife was running around with another man, a detective testified Wednesday.

Detective Inspector Ian McGregor gave this evidence at the Assize Court trial of Const. Fred Purser, 31, who is charged with the attempted murder Aug. 27 of Lloyd Felker of Aldergrove and with causing bodily harm to his wife, Noella, 32.

Purser, testifying in his own defense, said he still loved his wife, but she had been driving their savings to go away with another man.

When she returned home, he said, he confronted her with the fact she had been with Felker and "she readily admitted she was with Felker at some golf convention and they had stayed together for five days."

By Vest

EDMONTON (CP) — A gunbattle at a farm house near Edmonton in which an RCMP constable's life was saved by a bullet-proof vest was described Wednesday at the preliminary hearing of six men.

They are charged with attempted murder, attempted armed robbery and conspiracy to commit armed robbery.

HEARD STEPS

Const. A. S. Cedar, one of a group of city police and RCMP which set a trap at the farm house Nov. 5, said he was kneeling in the darkened dining room when he heard footsteps. A man opened the kitchen door and stood framed in the doorway.

The constable flipped on a spotlight. The man's hand rose and "I felt myself falling and heard a loud bang."

REMOVED VEST

After the intruders were subdued, he removed his bullet-proof vest because "I thought I might have been shot at."

The vest, with a hole in the fabric and a dent in the inner steel lining, was entered as an exhibit.

Transfusion Issue Up to Inquest

Question of possible effect of a rejected blood transfusion in a Sooke traffic fatality Tuesday must await findings of a coroner's inquest Friday at 10 a.m.

David Corrie, 56, injured about 6 p.m., was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. A Jehovah's Witness, he rejected a blood transfusion and doctors accepted.

He was suffering from shock and transfusions are usual in such conditions to ease shock.

Mr. Corrie's condition was fair but deteriorated and he died at 10:15 p.m.

Dr. D. M. Whitley, president of the Victoria Medical Society, explained yesterday doctors are under legal obligation to heed the request of any adult patient in such matters.

If a patient is conscious and requests no transfusion be given, the doctor must heed the request no matter what the apparent medical need.

This obligation holds even if the patient is unconscious, provided the doctor is aware of the patient's beliefs opposing transfusion.

Clifford Roberts, agent in charge of the Jehovah's Witnesses in Victoria, said the sect rejects transfusions on spiritual and medical grounds.

"We refuse them at any time and for any reason," he said, adding the sect had medical evidence indicating transfusions were as likely to cost a life as to save one.

A Hopeful Course

POLITICAL pundits around the world seem to see in Dean Rusk's appointment as United States secretary of state in the new Democratic administration a clear indication that President-elect John Kennedy is determined to have full personal control over future American foreign policy matters.

If this is so, it in no way minimizes the importance of Mr. Rusk's job but simply means that the United States is prepared at last to take the course that the majority of other leading countries have followed since the end of the Second World War.

It has long been recognized by most of the major powers that the coming of the age of missiles and rapid communication has out-dated the old style of diplomacy which gave the foreign ministers of any country almost unlimited rights to make a decision on his own rather than wait for the diplomatic mail bag to bring approbation or otherwise from his respective government.

There is too much at stake today—with each of the world's great powers possessing the means to destroy its enemy, itself, and the rest of civilization in a matter of hours—to allow any but the supreme heads of the governments concerned to decide the course.

Of all the leading nations the United States alone has been slow to grasp this and has permitted, with dire results, the policy setting to remain in the hands of a secretary of state.

If the pundits are right and this is to be the course followed by Mr. Kennedy, the world will breathe easier . . .

Wreckers at Work

IT is to be hoped that the walking out of the Central African Federation constitutional conference by the so-called "big three" African nationalist leaders will not be regarded as a matter of great import by the British government.

The action demonstrates the uncompromising attitude of a small group of self-elected African spokesmen which in no way represents the majority opinion of the Bantu people of the Rhodesias and Nyasaland.

The whole purpose of the present London meeting is to allow responsible representatives of both the black and white citizenry and governments of Southern Rhodesia, Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland to discuss freely with officials of the central federal government and the British government the constitutional changes necessary to ensure the successful continuation of the Federation as a political and economic entity.

The hope and ideal is, of course, that the Federation will become a multi-racial British dominion in Africa based on a policy of partnership between the two races. Though it must be admitted that since its inauguration in 1953, the balance of governing power has remained in the hands of the white population, a great deal has been done to encourage the African to accept a greater share of responsibility.

The educational and training process has been slow—too slow for some African extremists, but too fast for many government supporters who see the dangers of another Congo fiasco developing in the Federation if the job is rushed.

Nevertheless it is just such points that are slated for discussion at the conference in order to hammer out a sound and workable policy acceptable to all races.

Only three of the many representatives of all territories attended the meeting with the deliberate idea of breaking up the Federation as such—Dr. Hastings Banda of Nyasaland, Kenneth Kuanda of Northern Rhodesia and Joshua Nkomo of Southern Rhodesia.

Dr. Banda, who is the ring leader of the walk-out group, has an interesting history. Sent to England as a small boy by the very people he now professes to hate, he eventually graduated as a doctor of medicine. Spurning the great need of his own people for qualified physicians he remained in Britain for 40 years.

Only when he was invited to take over the leadership of the once-outlawed leftist African National Congress did he return to his own land. Once there he engineered an uprising based on the Mau Mau rebellion pattern in Kenya which fortunately was put down by police and loyal Africans before it developed into a blood bath.

Dr. Banda has never made any bones about the fact that he wants Nyasaland to break away from the Federation to become an independent country under his rule.

This is all recorded history—but the unfortunate part is that Dr. Banda will no doubt be lauded through the world as a freedom-fighter, a champion of African rights, or man to be trusted.

In reality Dr. Banda has no more right to represent his 2,600,000 fellow Nyasalanders than Tim Buck has to represent Canada. That such a man could be responsible for the break-up of the talks or for the eventual disintegration of the Federation is unthinkable.

Chance for Tourism

ALL organizations interested in the promotion of special events to attract and entertain visitors should throw their weight behind the tourist trade group of the Chamber of Commerce in its efforts to turn the annual Swiftsure Yacht Race into a week of aquatic events.

Seattle has its Sea Fair, which annually draws thousands of Americans and Canadians to the week-long festivities. Most of the visitors have no particular interest in yachting; they are attracted to the Sea Fair because smart promoters have developed it into one of the most spectacular events on the Pacific Coast.

Victoria, with more natural assets and facilities for nautical displays and contests than anything the Puget Sound city has to offer, has up to now been astonishingly neglectful of its opportunities. Royal Victoria Yacht Club has the unique honor of being permanent host to the Swiftsure Lightship race; yet up until a few years ago the city's tourist and publicity organizations completely ignored an event which could have been used as a means of focusing widespread attention on Victoria. It was only through the patient efforts of a few devoted yachtsmen that the race ultimately won official attention.

From then on the Swiftsure Race has been accorded more of the recognition it deserves—but not enough even yet to enable Victoria to capitalize on its potentialities. So far everything that has been accomplished has been undertaken unofficially, but it is beyond the scope or function of a private club to handle operations of the magnitude this occasion invites.

The opportunities are virtually limitless, and with vision and skillful organization, plus the right kind of promotion outside, Victoria could create an annual attraction rivalling anything that other western cities have to offer. Since the Swiftsure Race also is held always at the end of May, a week-long aquatic festival culminating in the race itself would get the tourist season off to an earlier start than is now possible.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

SHIPS like people come and go and it is in the order of things that the Princess Joan should say farewell and sail off to strange waters, such as those which ring the fabled islands of Greece. Yet if ships bear with them the spirit of those who have been aboard them—and who dare say they do not for ships grow to acquire a special cachet of their own—they must leave their home ports with reluctance.

A pity, though, that fate is so ordained that ships, and sometimes people, are cast aside like an old shoe. The Joan is not old in the sense she is useless, as her Greek flag will proclaim in a new environment and she will have many years of service before the shipbreakers scatter her ethos. She perhaps leaves with a smile, however, an ironic one, for she was invalidated out because of aircraft and the latter are now being bypassed by other ships.

A different type of ship, effective and popular and a handmaiden of convenience even if not capturing the gracious aura that marked the little CPR liners in the heyday of their ferry service. The Joan and her sisters were too good to be true for the days that overtook them, but the Greeks have a word for everything, they say, and one scarcely doubts that the Joan will command a most pleasing adjective.

It is not possible but I would faint on board as she moves like the graceful princess she is up through the Aegean Sea, past Lemnos and Imbros, perhaps, and other legendary places which knock at the back door of my memory. Like many others who have visited certain lands under certain enforced conditions I am periodically afflicted with a desire to go back to them in more propitious circumstances. I never shall, of course, but one dreams musingly of such things.

Were I aboard the Joan as she left Crete behind and turned north towards her new home port, for instance, assuming she is not destined for Athens or the west coast of Greece, I would be on the lookout for the ghost of another ship that had a personality not easy to forget. She is long since gone either to the shipbreakers or to that more appropriate final resting place of ships, the sea depths themselves, but when she was called the River Clyde she too had a cachet of her own. It embraced the lives of many men as she rammed herself ashore on Cape Helles to make things less desperate for a landing force in the long ago of 45 years past, and thereafter lay forlorn and alone as a monument to the perverse fate of men and ships.

That is now history, although as the Princess Joan sails the ancient Sea she becomes part of the continuing history that belongs to these waters. It needs only a little imagination to link her with the fleets of Alexander, the voyage of Hercules, and the Homeric tales of Achilles and Agamemnon. Hers will be a more peaceful role, happily—or so it is to be conjectured—and she is the repository of a name compatible with the fame and glories of that fabled area of the world. The great Joan of history is at least as influential as that of the great Helen who set the Greeks and the Trojans afame. The Princess Joan can therefore bear her new ensign with befitting aplomb.

It is sad to see her go, nevertheless, but she will carry a little bit of Victoria with her. Just as the seas of the globe are all of a piece, and the Joan needs only to sail on and on without break or portage, so is memory one long unbroken skein. And the log of the Joan, no matter her new Grecian name, will record the years of her pride and attachment to the straits of Georgia and Juan de Fuca.

May the years and the seas deal kindly with her though we never see her again. She once was ours, and that gives us a lasting interest in her welfare.

Reports from Ottawa

THE government's policy that "normal" trade relations with Cuba should continue regardless of the U.S. embargo on exports to Cuba is formally correct. It may also be sensible, practical and in Canada's best interests, but it is too soon yet to judge.

The right of this sovereign country to sell its goods anywhere it chooses cannot be challenged. But in this interdependent world very often the exercise of a national right injures the interests of a friendly neighbor. Thus it may not be in the best interests of the first country to "make in Japan" repelled customers?

Another thought: One Canadian writer in Cuba puts a five-year life on Canadian sales opportunities there—five years for Canadian goods to help defeat the U.S. embargo, and then Cuba will be able to get along without North American production, its economy geared to the Communist world.

likely to take any measures of reprisal. But it could be less concerned in future about Canadian interests and feelings. American industry, seeing Canadians take over its former Cuban accounts, might be less interested in defence production sharing with Canadian firms. And American buyers might turn against Canadian goods. Remember when the label "made in Japan" repelled customers?

The government chooses to consider the Cuban situation as less an extension of the cold war than an ill-tempered spat between Havana and Washington, and so proclaims its neutrality. It will sell Canadian goods to the Cubans, but it won't let Cubans—or buck-hungry Americans either—use Canada as a back door for shipping contraband U.S. goods to Cuba. Moreover, it maintains export controls on arms and a list of strategic materials.

If its assessment of the Cuban situation is valid, its position is correct. But if wrong, or if the costs in terms of Canadian-American relations become prohibitive, how can the Diefenbaker government extract itself without the damning political indictment that it bowed to pressure from Washington?

Government officials act as though they're walking on eggs—no doubt reflecting cabinet feelings. The only rules in the game are Canada's best interests. Those rules could change at any moment in the game.

Fatheads at the Wheel

By GREGORY CLARK

HOW do you explain the kind of car driver who comes racing up alongside you on your left, cuts in ahead of you, and then tramps on his brakes and makes a right-hand turn one squeak ahead of your front bumper?

Or how do you account for the sort of driver who on the highway, though he can see there is a line of cars, head to tail, for a quarter mile ahead, comes hotly up beside you, slams on his brakes and cuts in ahead of you. And then, for mile after mile, sits quite content in front of you, there, maybe for the rest of the entire journey?

These are a couple of the questions I discussed with a highway officer as we sat at a wayside lunch counter.

"The miracle is," said the constable, "there are so few of them. When you consider how many fatheads there are in the world, guys who can't hold their jobs, guys who are in trouble at home, nitwits losing money every day of their lives, fees getting drunk once a week, dummies who play the horses, characters that go to auction sales, all the lovely conglomeration of human beings who are in trouble of some kind every day of their lives, the wonder to me is that our traffic moves as remarkably as it does."

Neglect of History

(From The London Free Press)

REV. George W. Goth in a speech at Brantford deplored what he believed to be tendency to downgrade history as a basic course in schools. Mr. Goth was on sound ground when he said: "History is necessary to produce men and women with deep, abiding values. They will not know where they are going if they do not know where they came from."

It is encouraging that educators are quick to point out that no plan is afoot to supplant history in school curriculums. History is still a required course through Grade 12.

Mr. Goth may or may not be right in what he says in regard to the prominence given to the teaching of history and the inclination to place emphasis on sciences and social studies of all kinds. But he is on firm ground when he emphasizes the need of history teaching.

This does not mean merely learning the names of the kings of England and similar dull records. The story of the development of mankind and the progress of freedoms of all kinds can only be learned by a study of history. There is so much history to learn that all that can be done is to stimulate interest in the subject and not drive students away by its dullness and dryness.

Above all, Canadians should become familiar with our own history, which is far from being as dreary a subject as is often painted. It is an epic and thrilling story of the conquering by peaceful means of half a continent, which despite the handicaps of racial differences and geographic and economic obstacles has been welded into one nation.

It may not be the fault of the schools or teachers, but it is often appalling to find the lack of knowledge of our own country in native-born Canadians. The situation with respect to New Canadians is another story.

African Pointer

Doubt About Apartheid

By BERTHA SOLOMON

JOHANNESBURG: Now that the referendum is over and the republic an established fact, all the re-thinking on African questions that the tragedy of Sharpeville prompted is beginning to come to the surface.

First, there has been a statement by 69 eminent citizens of all shades of political thinking, demanding a fair deal for all, black and white. As a statement of principle it was excellent enough. But since the eminent signatories expressly deny that they intend any political action, well, it doesn't get any further than a fine, high-sounding statement. Still, it may be regarded as encouraging, if not of much practical value.

Then SABRA (the South African Bureau of Racial Affairs, the Afrikaans version of the Institute of Race Relations), which has all along been the intellectual and philosophical force behind the concept of apartheid, has recently been pressing the government hard to implement the positive side of that policy more quickly, and has thereby more or less fallen out with Dr. Verwoerd, the prime minister, who at this stage is not prepared to ask his followers for the financial sacrifices, by way of increased taxation, that such an implementation would necessitate.

And the Progressive Party, a new splinter party largely consisting of liberal elements which broke away from the United Party, the official opposition, has just held a "franchise and constitution" congress and announced its policy.

First, taking to heart what the Nationalists did to our present constitution some years ago, the new party wants a rigid constitution—that is, one which will not be at the mercy of a fortuitous parliamentary majority. Secondly, there should be a common roll, and all new voters, white or black, will have to comply with certain educational and economic qualifications before they can vote.

There are, of course, other points in its program, but the effect of what the Progressives are aiming at would be a multi-racial society where color alone will be no bar.

As a policy it is sound enough—and possibly had it been put forward ten years ago it might have been acceptable to African opinion, if not to the whites. But even if by some miracle, or disaster—and it would take major ones of either—the whites could be persuaded to accept such a policy today, the Africans wouldn't. For them the qualified franchise, even though for both white and black, is too little and too late.

And in fact both the leading African bodies have already promptly and flatly rejected the party's suggestion. They are only interested in manhood suffrage as it exists at present for the whites.

Finally, a book has just been published which may ultimately have some political significance (though it is not so intended). It is entitled "Delayed Action", and is a series of articles published by 11 eminent ministers and professors of the three Dutch Reformed churches here. Its subject is the relationship between the churches, the Christian faith, and the policy of apartheid, and since the churches have hitherto backed that policy, this implied criticism is of considerable importance. For the influence of the Dutch Reformed church on the Afrikaner is still very strong, especially in the platteland (the rural areas) where the Nationalists' main strength lies.

The mere suggestion, in fact, that some Afrikaans churchmen are critical of apartheid and that possibly there may be a sharp rift between church and state on the point, has evidently shaken as well as angered the government, if one may judge by the bitter attack on the book in a leading article in the "Transvaal," Dr. Verwoerd's own paper.

With the question of a republic settled, it would appear that some of Dr. Verwoerd's own Nationalists are beginning to have a doubt or two about apartheid—a significant pointer.

Landscape Blighted by Unending Sameness

City Needs Art Watchdogs To Ban Banal Architecture

By COLIN GRAHAM

Prejudices and crochets accumulate in the peevish mind of the gallery director like barnacles on a tramp ship. Daily he emerges from his gallery after casting his eyes on some of the lovelier of man's creations, only to be confronted by the cityscape. The contrast sours him.

How, he wonders, can a race of men able to create great paintings tolerate for five minutes the more drear achievements of the average North American city—the drab clutter, the garish signs, and what William Killbourn in the current issue of Canadian Art describes as "architecture to go quietly insane by."

I have less excuse than most directors for being peevish, since it is well known that Victoria is less scarred by visual slums than any other large Canadian city. We are lucky. We have so many pleasant sights around us as we go about our business that we have a right to congratulate ourselves on having the good sense, or the good luck, to live here.

Nature's Work

But I think we ought to be careful when we do this. We ought to be quite sure to avoid the fallacy of the Vancouverites (I know, for I was one of them), who will talk for hours on the scenic glories of his city without pausing to realize that everything he is boasting about has been achieved, not by Vancouverites, but by nature; and that what Vancouverites themselves have done with this glorious setting is by and large truly dreadful.

So let us first ask ourselves one or two questions as in Victoria, we look around us and expand with pride. How much of what we enjoy was here before Sir James Douglas arrived? And how much that is man-made and good was done before the last war?

Jarring Note

Have we, for instance, done anything in recent times comparable with the Parliament Buildings - Empress Hotel area? Well, we did add the Douglas Building, a monument to the banal if there ever was one, and a jarring note in that lovely site.

Have we done anything comparable with the Uplands development in this post-war era in which the quantity of our buildings has almost doubled? We have created some fine residences, certainly, and also one or two public buildings we look at without shame.

Lost Capacity

But surely it is too kind to describe the great mass of buildings put up in this era as mediocre. Inevitably, as we have lost the capacity to create that peculiar charm which the English brought over with them, we have replaced it with things of little character and small capacity to endear themselves to us. CANADIAN FORUM

What an enormous amount of good could be done by an able critic commenting regularly and remorselessly on new buildings as they appeared. The eyes of the average man, who so far has never really had a chance to think cogently about architecture, might be opened wide. And woe betide the architect or contractor who put up an eyeseer.

Good Citizens

Each year we award honors to those who best deck out their homes with Christmas decorations. By the same token, why should we not give annual good citizen awards to the architects who design the best buildings, the artists who paint the finest pictures, the companies who do the most distinguished signs, and the gardeners with the handsomest gardens? What these people do governs much of the quality, or otherwise, of our daily experience.

And if anyone wonders why I have included the artists, let him reflect on one simple fact. Of all the scores of thousands of people of Victoria's past only one name has survived that is known and valued by many people beyond the borders of the province: that of Emily Carr.

Budget for Art

The artist—and by that I mean the painter, the sculptor, the potter and so on—can make a vital contribution to the pleasure our eyes give as we pursue our communal life. Cities like Florence, Venice and Paris are witness enough to that.

Why not, then, do as other cities have done and set aside one per cent of the budget of each public building for murals, sculptures and other adornments, with provision for their replacement with others if after five years they fail to justify their place.

Give It Power

What we need is some sort of civic arts committee to act as watchdog of the city's good looks. Give it the same powers, for instance, as that committee in Switzerland before which all posters-in-the-making must pass a test of quality and taste, with the result that in the design of posters Switzerland leads the world.

Give it the power (and the funds) to commission local, national and international sculptors to create works for our public spaces. Give it the power to prevent crucial mistakes like the official welcome sign at the Douglas Street roundabout, the placing of the B.C. Power Commission building at the end of a street where its less than elegant form blots out what once was a magnificent vista leading to an unparalleled view of the Olympics, or the erection of a federal post office building on Government Street whose size and style are out of keeping with the rest of the buildings on that street.

Ignore Plans

Let this committee work hand-in-hand with the city engineer's department and the Unhappy about the drab clutter and garish signs of Victoria, Colin Graham today writes about "Landscape and Cityscape" in Canadian Forum.

Algerian Mobs

Moslems Die In New Riots

ALGIERS (AP)—French riot forces used guns, tear gas and roaring concussion grenades Wednesday to turn back swarms of Moslems in the seaport of Bone and around the ancient Casbah of Algiers.

Two Moslems were killed and an undetermined number wounded when police in Bone opened fire on 2,000 Moslems who turned a funeral procession for comrades killed in Tuesday's rioting into a screaming nationalist demonstration. This brought to 125 the number killed in rioting since last Sunday.

In Algiers scores of persons were wounded and hundreds arrested in a tough official crackdown on those responsible for violence or threatening more.

The demonstrators in Algiers called for the elevation to power of exiled rebel Premier Ferhat Abbas.

Abbas rejects Premier Charles de Gaulle's self-rule policy for Algeria and demands immediate independence.

Mobutu Ends Threat to Base

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP)—Army chief Col. Joseph Mobutu did an about face Wednesday night and ordered his troops to pull out of a west Congo base where they had threatened Moroccan United Nations troops.

'Let U.S. Pay' Attitude Jars UN Delegation

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—U.S. diplomats expressed grave concern last night over the widespread feeling here that the United States would foot the $60,000,000 UN bill in the Congo for 1960 if necessary.

The diplomats sought to dispel the apathy among many delegations toward a draft resolution that would obligate all UN members to share the costs of the peace operation in the Congo. The Communists have refused to pay anything, and their position has received substantial support.

NEARLY BROKE

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold has declared that the United Nations is nearly broke and that Congo expenses will be about $10,000,000 a month. Britain warned yesterday that a financial collapse of the UN Congo operation would destroy the world organization.

A vote on the resolution was expected in the general assembly's budget committee today.

FAIL TO GRASP

The United States and Britain, leaders of the fight for obligatory payments, were fearful that some delegations did not grasp the seriousness of the situation and may assist the Communists to defeat the resolution.

Mobutu decided to order the withdrawal after conferring with United Nations officials here.

Congolese informants here said there has been no fighting at the base.

Gaglardi 'Knew Order'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A lawyer said Wednesday Highways Minister Gaglardi knew full well the meaning of a wire advising him of a court order against Union Contractors Ltd.

J. G. Gould told the British pany should be paid to a re-Columbia Court of Appeal ceiver. Mr. Gould was speaking at a contempt of court conviction of the wire which advised of a court order that monies payable to the comhead of Union Contractors, who was also found guilty of contempt, was given an indefinite prison sentence.

The order was the result of an injunction obtained by Burton Glazier of Seattle, who was owed $25,000 by Thornton. Despite the order, the highways department deposited money for work done by Union in the Revelstoke area in Mr. Thornton's bank account in Bonner's Ferry, Idaho.

Mr. Thornton lost his appeal last week.

Mr. Gould, counsel for Mr. Glazier, said: "How could Highways Minister Gaglardi, an experienced cabinet minister, read that wire and not understand the meaning and significance of the appointing of Montreal Trust Company as receiver?"

M. M. McFarlane, Mr. Gaglardi's counsel, said Tuesday the wire was received while the minister was in Kamloops.

It had been processed and an opinion was obtained from the attorney-general's department and both were forwarded to the minister. The attorney-general's department had said the money could be sent to Thornton's bank.

The cheque was accompanied by a letter from the department of highways which advised of the order and warned Thornton to "act accordingly."

This was merely "pious hope," Mr. Gould said.

Premier Bennett should say whether he intends exporting Columbia only smile respectfully at the River power in order to leave the "juvenile" actions of Premier Bennett last weekend as he developed by the Wenner-Gren interests on the Peace River.

"The announcement by the Wenner-Gren company (that it would remain firm in its decision to develop the Peace) gives support to my fears that this is the intention of the premier," said Strachan.

Canada's Job Picture Gloomiest Since War

Unemployed Gutless March Leader Says

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian unemployment picture, the darkest in post-war years, became more serious in November as the jobless total reached 429,000 at mid-month, up 61,000 from mid-October.

The figure reported yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics represented 6.6 per cent of the labor force compared with 5.1 per cent a year earlier when unemployment was 112,000 less.

JOB SITUATION

The highest previous post-war level of unemployment for a November was 379,000 two years ago. The numbers of persons with jobs shrank by 102,000 to 6,029,000 between October and November.

'ABOUT AVERAGE'

A joint report by the bureau and the labor department said this employment decline was "about average" for the time of year, but noted that the seasonal decline in farming and construction jobs was smaller than usual because of good weather in October and most severe in British Co-

mibia, the Atlantic region and Quebec.

A comparison with last year gave further evidence of the recent trends in which the labor force has grown more rapidly than the supply of jobs and employment opportunities have been easier for women than for men.

Unemployment was the highest in November in British Co-

mibia, the Atlantic region and Quebec.

The Pacific region had 57,000 unemployed—9.8 per cent of the labor force—an increase of 12,000 from mid-October.

He said after the marchers were received at city hall that November last year, he was disappointed at the

Angels and Senators Pick Their Lineups

BOSTON—Los Angeles Angels and the new Washington Senators became a part of the major baseball league scene yesterday when they picked their rosters from lists of 15 submitted by the eight other American League clubs.

But while each of the new clubs spent the staggering amount of $210,000 for the 28 players they were allowed, neither roster was likely to cause the defending-champion New York Yankees any loss of sleep.

There just wasn't too much available for the two newcomers, who will start play in a 10-team league next spring, despite the $75,000 price tag slapped on each player.

There were a number of Ross, Marion Zipfel, Hector Maestri, Ed Hobaugh, John Schiavone, Chester Boak, Dean Chance, Bob Rodgers, Fred Newman, Jim Fregosi, Ron Donovan, Dale Long, Bobby Shantz, Bob Cerv, Ed Yost, Ted Kluszewski, Ned Garver, Johnny Klippstein, Ned Sturdivant and a few others.

There was some promising talent—Jerry Casale, Eli Grba, Ken Hunt, Ken Aspromonte and a few others. There were border-line players such as Willie Tasby, Earl Averill, Marty Keough, Billy Klaus, Duke Maas, Dave Sisler, Hal Woodeschick and a few others.

And then there were those practically unknown outside of the minor leagues that played in last season—Aubrey Gatewood, Bob Sprout, Don TODAY all are major leaguers. The Los Angeles contingent will compete for crowds against the National League Dodgers, a solid pennant contender. The new Senators, who look to most to have come off a bit better than the Angels in the selecting, will try to make Washington fans forget Jim Lemon, Harmon Killebrew, Camilo Pascual and Earl Battey.

Grba was the first player selected, taken by the Angels, while the Senators made Shantz, the veteran southpaw, their first choice. Two hours later, each club had its 28 players and each of the eight original American League clubs was $525,000 richer for having given up the maximum of eight players without losing anything but bench strength.

TEN PITCHERS

Under restrictions in the selections, each club has to select 10 pitchers, two catchers, six infielders and four outfielders. The choosing was done in that order, and then came selection of six additional players for any position desired.

In addition to the 28 players they selected yesterday, the Senators have pitchers John Gaber and Roman Semporek, selected by draft from the minor leagues two weeks back. The Angels have catcher Del Rice, signed as a free agent.

Rosters as selected yesterday:

LOS ANGELES ANGELS

Pitchers—Ed Grba and Duke Maas; Roy Sievers, Jerry Casale and Fred Newman from Boston Red Sox; Truman Clevering of Minneapolis; Tom Morgan from Detroit; Andy Gatewood from Detroit Tigers; Ken McBride of Chicago White Sox; Ron McNamee from Cleveland Indians; Baltimore Orioles; and Bob Davis and Ned Garver from Kansas City Athletics.

Double-Fullback Offence Abandoned by Eskimos?

Hints that the days of double-fullback, ball-control football of the Frank Ivy era are at an end for Edmonton Eskimos came out of the club's annual meeting last night.

Club president Gordon Wynn told 300 members of the Touchdown Club that he believed the fans "would see a great difference next year in Eskimos' style of play." Presumably this is because star fullbacks Johnny Bright and Normie Kwong have both hinted they won't be back next year. Kwong may stick to retirement plans and Bright is looking for a coaching berth with Calgary Stampeders.

The team is also making every effort to get U.S. college players who were born in Canada and would therefore not be classed as imports. General-manager Joe Ryan has written to more than 200 players asking if their parents or they themselves were born in Canada.

Eskimos operated at an estimated net profit of $1,586 for the season and officials said the only thing that saved the team was the extra revenue from the Grey Cup final. In 1959 there was a net loss of $2,927. Attendance was down about 10,000 and season ticket sales dropped by about 700.

LEO DUROCHER has charged that there is a conspiracy among club owners to keep him from getting back into baseball, and denied that he was ever offered the position of manager of the new Los Angeles Angels . . . Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League have sent road winger Bob Goebel to Sudbury Wolves of the Eastern Professional Hockey League for experience, replacing him with Dennis Rathwell, who has been playing with Spokane Comets under a loan arrangement . . . the newly-formed Kelowna-Penticton entry in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League will play its first game tomorrow night against Vernon Canadians in Kelowna . . . Walt Peacock, who was with Penticton, has joined Trail Smoke Eaters of the Western International Hockey League along with Darryl Sly, a forward with Gault Terriers of the Ontario Senior Hockey Association.

Wynn told the woman she would receive "quite an argument from Halter (Canadian Football League Commission G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg) if he was here."

However, Wynn told the meeting that Halter had said at a recent meeting of WIFU executives that referees had made two big mistakes in the Eskimos' first playoff game against Winnipeg Blue Bombers at Edmonton this fall.

Wynn said officials were blowing the whistle to stop play before the play actually had ended. He said the referees were anticipating the play.

SAM ETCHEVERRY, still undecided about his 1961 football plans after being traded to Hamilton by Montreal, will let his new employers know what he plans to do next week . . . Almost 8,000 curlers across Canada will take part in the third annual meeting of WIFU executives to be held in Toronto on Dec. 15.

Chicago Hawks Halt Skid Glen Hall Wins Ovation

CHICAGO—Chicago Black Hawks put a temporary brake on their National Hockey League nose-dive here last night, blanking New York Ranger, 4-0.

Goalie Glenn Hall blocked 41 shots for his third shutout of the year and received a standing ovation from a home crowd of 4,021, smallest crowd of the season at Chicago.

LONG HAUL

It's been a long haul for the Hawks, who hadn't won a game since Nov. 24 and now have only two wins and two in 10 starts. But extra practice sessions ordered for a porous defence by general manager Tommy Ivan apparently paid off last night.

Rangers, going all out in an effort to gain some ground on the Hawks, chose to concentrate on offence last night, and while they were trying to beat Hall they were leaving Gump Worsley all by himself. Worsley made 31 saves, but couldn't do it all himself.

FIRST GOAL

Rookie Reg Fleming got the first goal with Chicago short-handed at 8:20 of the first period, stealing the puck from Andy Bathgate at centre for a breakaway that gave him his first goal.

Cougars Post 4-2 Win Vacate League Cellar

EDMONTON—Victoria Cougars, who just missed at Calgary on Tuesday night, overcame a two-goal deficit here Wednesday night to defeat Edmonton Flyers, 4-2, in a Western Hockey League game played before 3,000 fans.

Taking a period to find their skating legs, the Cougars bottled up the Flyers throughout most of the final 40 minutes, cut the lead in two in the second period, and then won it with three third-period goals. The last one came with 84 seconds left and Flyers attacking with six players.

Result boosted the Cougars two points ahead of the trailing Winnipeg Warriors and left them only a point behind the sixth-place Spokane Comets, who stayed ahead with a win over Seattle. Flyers and Seattle remained tied for fourth place but are only four points ahead of the Cougars.

It was the fourth straight loss for the skidding Flyers.

who have lost nine and won three games since they were selected by owners at a league meeting as the club to beat.

And it was once more the Edmonton defence which was to blame. It has leaked for 52 goals in the last 12 games and Dennis Riggan, who is of all stature, is having difficulty keeping his goals-against average below four a game. In the 25 games his club has played, Riggan has stopped exactly 800 shots while missing on 97. Two other goals were scored when he was taken off for a sixth attacker.

But the Cougars, who gave up 23 goals in the four games which constituted their only losing streak of the season, gave Marcel Pelletier a lot of help with their forechecking and a defence which has been bolstered by the addition of Georges Roy, colorful French-Canadian veteran.

ONLY FIVE

In their last three games, of which they won two, the Cougars have yielded only five goals.

Flyers got away to a big start when rookie Bruce MacGregor scored on a power play in the first period and Brian Smith, down from the parent Detroit Red Wings, made it 2-0 in the latter part of the period.

That was all. Veteran Elliott Chorley, who played a steady game, got the Victoria club close when he scored late in the second period on assists from Roy and rookie Don Wilson.

POWER-PLAY GOAL

Gerry Goyer tied it up on a power-play early in the third period as the visitors continued to carry the play. Doug Macauley got what proved to be the winner at 10:58 and after Pelletier had come up with two or three fine stops as Flyers pressed for the tying goal, Ford hit the unguarded net with the clinching shot only 84 seconds from time.

As usual, Dolores Hart's hands broke out in a rash during the filming of "The Plunderers," her fifth film. Attributing it to nothing but nerves when co-star Jeff Chandler kidded that she must be allergic to movies, she told this story about her ordeal on Broadway in "The Pleasure of His Company," which she played for 364 performances.

One evening, when the play had been running six months, she was standing in the wings with Cornelia Otis Skinner waiting to go on. "I'm shaking like a leaf," Dolores told her. "What do you suppose is the matter with me? Do you think I'll ever become an actress?"

Political Dynamite? So What

Africa Churches Score Apartheid

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — A multi-racial South African chapter meeting of the World Council of Churches Wednesday announced the adoption of resolutions condemning the government's apartheid (racial segregation) policy.

A statement said the resolutions were adopted by at least an 80 per cent majority of the delegates. Three Afrikaner churches dissented in separate statements.

One churchman was asked whether he realized that the statement was "political dynamite." He replied: "Political dynamite or sweet music, it is none of our business. This was not a meeting of politicians but of churchmen."

The majority statement issued at a press conference said the theme of the seven-day meeting was the "Christian" attitude toward racial relations.

Attending were 80 delegates from South African member churches, including 24 Negro, colored (mixed blood) and Asians, and seven delegates from the World Council. For the first time since these meetings started in 1953, delegates slept and ate in the same building.

Carols Thrill Audience

By BERT BINNY

Well-known carols together with some less familiar enthralled a large audience at First United Church last night. The program was the 13th annual "Carols in the Candlelight," presented by First United Choir, directed by Mr. and Mrs. Roberto Wood.

ADDED MUCH

Eight soloists, Lois Fraser, Shirley Main, Ann Burridge, Lorna Griffiths, Alice Waddell, Paul Wharf, Rino Elveroy and Allan Husband, added much to the evident enjoyment of the program.

In addition there were lovely choral numbers as well as congregational carols and the musical literature of many countries was drawn upon.

MOST PLEASANT

"Carols in the Candlelight" has been one of the most pleasant heralds of Christmas for the past 12 years. The 13th program maintained the standard of excellence.

Garden Notes

Roses for Christmas

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Lucky is the gardener who has a thriving patch of Helleborus niger, the Christmas Rose, blooming in his garden, for this is a delightful flower to decorate the Christmas dinner table.

I know of some gardens in which the Christmas rose will start blooming in November, continuing off and on all winter. With me, if the plants are left to their own resources, I seldom get enough flowers to make a bouquet or arrangement before the middle of January. I find it necessary to coax them along a bit to have them in quantity for Christmas Day.

Some kind of protection is necessary in any case, to keep the flowers from becoming mud-splashed and weatherbeaten. The Christmas rose—not a true rose at all but a winter-blooming member of the buttercup family—bears dainty greenish-white flowers of a singularly pure and virginal appearance, and a flower with a dark face is completely out of character.

There are several ways in which we can protect the blooms. One way is to carpet the ground between and around the plants with clean green moss from the woods, or failing this, with peat moss. A mulch of this kind is most effective in preventing mud-splashing.

An even better way is to cover your plants to protect them from bad weather. I don't mean that you should grow the Christmas rose in the protection of a coldframe; for the plant is essentially hardy and resents too much coddling, but some kind of temporary covering to keep the rain off the flowers during the blossoming period. A bottomless wooden box with a sheet of plastic tacked over it will do a grand job and such a contraption will not only keep the flowers unsullied but will cause the blooms to stretch themselves toward the light, making for longer stems—an important consideration when you come to arrange them.

As a cut flower, the Christmas rose is inclined to be temperamental. Sometimes they will last for days in water. Other times, for no good reason at all, they will droop and look sorry for themselves in a matter of hours. I suspect this may be due to shock, for these plants are known to have a marked dislike for sudden changes in temperature, either in their growing state or as a cut flower. For instance, flowers which have been growing sturdily in the open all through the cold weather will flag and wilt when brought suddenly into a warm room. If we bring forced blooms from under glass out into the cold air, the same thing happens.

The trick here is to let the flowers become acclimated before you begin to arrange them. Cut your flowers with a very sharp knife, or better still, a razor blade, so as not to crush the stems. Place them deep in cool water and store them in the coolest part of the house until you are satisfied they are taking up water happily. If any individuals still persist in drooping and hanging their heads after this conditioning, cut a bit off the end of the stem and dunk the end in boiling water to a depth of an inch.

Drafts are deadly to all cut flowers, but especially so to the Christmas rose. Outdoors, they can take anything the weather has to offer without turning a hair, but once in the house, they cannot stand a draft whistling down the back of their neck.

Critic at Large

By John Crosby

It's a Lonely, Lonely World

Without question, the world's number one problem is the population explosion. The world will play host in the next 10 years to 500,000,000 more people than we have now. That increase, half a billion people, is more than the world population in 1600. It's going to be a crowded planet.

But there is a great paradox. In the midst of this abundance of peoples the problem of loneliness—of individual loneliness—is increasing, not lessening. I think the theme of loneliness has preoccupied our serious writers—particularly our writers for the theatre—more than any other them in our time. One of the most eloquent of our social philosophers is David Reisman and his chief d'oeuvre is called "The Lonely Crowd." The more of us there are the lonesomer we get.

We may prate all we like about togetherness (actually "McCall's" has abandoned that terrible word), but we are less together than ever. The shape of modern life, especially the mindless shape most of our cities are assuming, are driving us more and more toward separateness.

Today in the United States there are 18,022,000 men without women: 14,768,000 are bachelors; 2,161,000 are widowers, and 1,093,000 are divorced.

More than one-fourth of the males in the United States choose to live alone (I am indebted to Eleanor Harris in "Look" for this information).

And while the numbers of single men are increasing, the numbers of single women are shooting up rapidly too. Loneliness is getting very—well, I hate to say fashionable. Prevalent, anyway. The census bureau in Washington reveals that the number of women who head the household now stands at 9,300,000. Eighteen per cent of the American homes are run by women because they have no men. That's an increase of human terms of gossip and true communication.

Actually, I don't think there has been true togetherness on this planet since the Middle Ages, which in retrospect seems a wonderfully happy time. The castle was the unit, it was completely self-contained. Each one had its own smithy and cobbler and baker, as well as lord and lady.

Everyone knew everyone. Communication between people was total. In the jousts, the weddings, the feasts, even the evening meal—everything gathered; everyone participated.

But now as the population soars to a total of 6,000,000,000 people in the year 2,000, the apartments get smaller and smaller; the numbers of single men and women get more and more. Finally will come the distant day when each individual will inhabit a single room. Everyone will be unmarried, and in fact, no boy will know any girl. And that—as an anthropologist who prefers to remain nameless has predicted—will be nature's answer to the population explosion.

Marilyn Meeting Yves?

By SHEILA GRAHAM

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Yves Montand flies into New York from Paris in 10 days or so. And the birds are asking the bees, will Marilyn Monroe be at the airport to meet him?

Uncle Millie Berle will be pitched for a "supporting" Oscar in the Montand-Monroe picture, which he stole in his imitable fashion.

Doris Day will show her legs via a couple of swim suits in her next movie, "Lover Come Back."

Laurence Harvey is giving depositions in Los Angeles in the lawsuit against him by the British producers of "The Eddie Chapman Story" who claim he reneged on a contract to make the movie. Larry's picture price today is $350,000. Two years ago he was sitting around the Beverly Hills Hotel hoping to land a role in any picture in Hollywood—and failing.

Did you know that Dr. David Marcus changed the Hugh O'Brian career from villain to heroes when he flattened Hugh's front teeth. While they protruded, no one could see the O'Brian as a hero, let alone doughty Wyatt Earp.

Yvette Mimieux, the blonde who has everything, gets the lead in Arthur Freed's next biggie, "The Light in the Piazza." Yvette, who is excellent in "Where the Boys Are," is getting one of those old-time build-ups at MGM, the studio that made stars of the biggest glamor names in the business: Garbo, Garson, Crawford, Shearer, Gable, Robert Taylor, etc., etc. Maybe other studios will follow suit with their young hopefuls. One reason for the dip in movie attendance is the lack of exciting new stars.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

Christmas is coming, and I've been looking over the lists of children's books. They seem to get longer and fatter every year—more books, more series, more coverage of special interests and age ranges, more illustrations, more fancy come-ons.

Mainly, however, the trend is toward more exact grading for different age ranges—books for beginners, for second-graders, for 6-8, for 8-10, for 10-12 for 12-14. Books fight each other tooth and nail in offering parents the most mathematically exact children's books ever.

How do they do it? The basic principle is very simple. There are all sorts of lists cataloguing the words North American children learn in school—maybe a hundred in Grade 1, another hundred or two in Grade 2 and so on up.

The publisher thinks up a title, hires a reliable children's book author, hands him or her a list of suitable words to use and confidently sits back to wait for the result. Sure enough, the author settles down to his or her typewriter, concocts a story with frequent sidelong glances at the list of permissible words and delivers the limited-vocabulary opus promptly at the deadline.

It's all very nice and "scientific," but in the process our children get gypped. True, they learn to read only a certain number of words each year (due to our wretched whole-word sight reading system), but surely when they look under the Christmas tree, they expect something different from the "Oh! Oh! Look! Look!" type of thing they see every day at school.

They want fun, they want fantasy, they want high adventure and super-duper excitement. They want, in short, exactly the kind of thing that can't be served up within a limited range of words.

Those carefully graded books all have one thing in common—they're guaranteed to bore any child of any age. My own children, who luckily are all good readers, never took to those pseudo-scientific concoctions. They read all sorts of books, changing their enthusiasms from year to year. They've read and loved at various times—and loved Dr. Seuss' enchanting books, the classic fairy tales, Louisa May Alcott's novels, Jules Verne, H. G. Wells, the

Canadian Arctic Next Battlefield

Daily Colonist Victoria, B.C., Thurs., Dec. 15, 1960 17

Ottawa (CP) — A Canadian army officer says the Canadian Arctic likely would be the battlefield in any third world war.

Maj. J. E. The essay won first prize in a competition of the Conference of Defence Associations, a militia organization.

Suspect Treated Slain Boy's Dad

NEW WESTMINSTER — The man accused of murdering 11-year-old Donald Ottley in a Vernon park offered to buy the boy's stepfather a beer the evening the youngster was reported missing.

Roy Oliver told an assize court jury Wednesday that after reporting Donald missing he went into the Kalmalka hotel beer parlor and sat down at a table next to one occupied by Charles Heathman, 38, who is charged with murdering the young newsboy Sept. 2.

Mr. Oliver had just searched Polson Park for the youngster.

"He (Heathman) was at the next table up from where I was sitting," said Mr. Oliver.

"He spoke to me and said, 'I'm sorry what happened to the boy.' He had a (Kelowna) Courier there and was going to show me a piece referring to Donald (his disappearance) but I said I'd already seen it."

"He put his hand in his pocket and threw 25 cents down and said to have a beer with me."

Earlier, Dorothy Oppenheimer of O'Keefe's Sliding, near Vernon, told the court that she saw Heathman entering Polson Park with a young boy at about 7 p.m. Sept. 2.

Fund Launched For St. John's

Launching of a fund to aid in rebuilding St. John's Anglican Church was announced yesterday by fund chairman Capt. T. B. T. Hewett.

At the same time, work was begun to repair First United Church, damaged Friday in a fire discovered while St. John's was burning.

CONTRACT SIGNED

A contract was signed yesterday with contractor George H. Wheaton Ltd., and the firm will start repairing the fire damage at once. Decoration work will be completed as soon after Christmas as possible.

Estimates of the damage at St. John's have been placed tentatively at $500,000.

LEFT STANDING

Much will depend on a survey to be made of the structure's walls, left standing after the fire. If it proves possible, these may be utilized in rebuilding the church.

Insurance coverage on St. John's has been fixed at $330,000 for the building, $27,000 for the stained glass.

Both Purchasers and City Poor Will Benefit

Greater Victoria's needy families will benefit and so will the purchasers when these toys and hundreds of others are put up for auction at Maynard's auction rooms—Tuesday afternoon and evening—

500 FundMore Toys
Needed
For Sale

Toys donated for a giant auction at Maynard's are coming in at a fair pace, manager Roy Ashworth said last night, but there is room for many more.

Donating toys to the auction will help the 500 most needy families in the area. Proceeds from the auction go directly to The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund.

The auction will be under the direction of Arthur Roberts, Jr., aided by Colonist carriers, and will be held at Maynard's on Johnson Street Tuesday afternoon and evening.

By bringing a toy to the Kinsmen Giant Bingo game on Monday, players will help the 500 fund as well as becoming eligible for a Christmas turkey. Toys from the bingo game will be taken to Maynard's for Tuesday's giant auction.

Kinsmen have offered a number of turkeys for a raffle during the bingo game. Price of a ticket is a toy.

A total of $706.68 brought in by last year's toy auction helped push the 500 Fund up to the $10,475 mark, making it possible for each of Greater Victoria's 500 most needy families to receive a cheque for $20.95.

Hot-Rodders Help Santa

Members of the Quarter-Milers and Valley Rams hot-rod clubs will take on the role of Santa's helpers Saturday.

Acting for the Christmas Bureau of the Community Chest they will deliver toys to 935 needy children in Victoria and outlying areas.

City health officials haven't day with a very sore throat yet been able to pinpoint it. Later she developed one prevalent virus that affects mump, the throat, chest, and stomach.

Asked if the present virus could be, in fact, a mild case of measles without spots or yesterday that there were a fair number of cases of mumps, she replied: "We don't know. We haven't been able to pinpoint it yet."

"They are both virus-infected," Dr. Mahaffey said that streptococci was in fact a case of young person in here the other scarlet fever without the rash.

Receiving congratulations all round is Glen Hamilton, second from left, last night confirmed as New Party candidate for the Esquimalt-Saanich federal byelection. Doing the congratulating are Stanley Knowles,

Unemployment a DisgraceBirth of New Party Seen
As Echo of Depression

History made in the depression years of the 1930s with the formation of the CCF Party is being repeated in the 1960s with the formation of the New Party, Stanley Knowles, executive vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress, said in Victoria last night.

"It seems to me there are periods when the times call for something from human beings what is needed at that time," he told a meeting of 150 in the Douglas CCF Hall. Mr. Knowles is also chairman of the committee organizing the New Party.

"Today the Diefenbaker government is desperately trying to do a patching job, but it's too late for patches. We need a new and a dynamic approach to our problems," he added.

Couple Married Here To Reside in Calgary

Three attendants walked up the aisle of St. Alban's Church with Miss Violet Katherine Brayshaw for her marriage to Mr. Louis Arthur Gray.

Rev. F. H. Hayes officiated at the ceremony for the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Brayshaw, Edgecombe Road, and the son of Mrs. S. Gray of Woodstock, Ont.

The bride was a picture as she entered the church with her father. Her wedding gown was fashioned with a basque lace bodice, and floor-length bouffant skirt of tiered lace and net. Sequins and pearls trimmed the bodice and a veil of embroidered lace matted from a double crown of sequins and pearls. Her bouquet was of carnations and red roses.

Mrs. W. Watmough was matron of honor for her sister, Miss Marjorie Majorki was bridesmaid, and another junior bridesmaid.

They wore full-skirted dresses of American Beauty chiffon crepe, white feather hats and carried cascade bouquets of carnations to match their dresses.

Mr. William Watmough was best man and Mr. Vern Johsike and Mr. D. Wilson acted as ushers.

A buffet supper followed at the home of the bride's parents where the bride's table was centred with a three-tiered cake. Mr. Lin Sheppard proposed the toast.

The new Mrs. Gray wore an olive suit trimmed with grey fur and full-length grey coat when the couple left on honeymoon. The newlyweds will reside in Calgary where the groom is stationed with the 2nd Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Please don't throw this letter away as a "silly kid problem." I need help.

I'm 15, a fellow, and have just started to go to school dances. I'm not a very hot dancer but I'm trying to improve.

My big problem is, what does a guy talk about besides school and the weather when they are dancing?

I try a lot of different subjects, but they fall flat and I feel like a goof. To top it all off, my dancing gets lousy, too. Please help me. STUMBLING AND TONGUE TIED

Dear Stumbling: A wise man once said it's better to remain silent and be thought a fool, than to open your mouth and remove all doubt.

Nobody expects a 15-year-old to be a combination of Mortimer Adler and Fred Astaire. Forget about jazzy conversation on the dance floor. When you dance—dance.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister has three children whom she calls "active and normal."

I say they are undisiplined and rude.

The oldest is 12, a boy. He doesn't stand up when introduced to older people. He interrupts adult conversation and takes right over. The girl, 10, never says "please" or "thank you." It's always "gimme" this or that. Her table manners are atrocious. I realize a 10-year-old is far from an adult but she's old enough to know better than to stuff food into her mouth with both hands and ignore the silver completely.

The youngest who is six behaves like a jungle animal. I could write a book on this one. When I recently told my sister she'd better do something about her kids she became furious and said, "I hate trained monkeys. I want MY children to be natural and enjoy life." What about this?—AUNTIE MAYME.

By manners, I don't mean superficial niceties. I mean genuine consideration for other people. Children who interrupt, grab, shove, and put their own wants first, demonstrate a basic lack of respect for the rights of others. Your sister can call this "natural" if she wants to. Others have a different definition—and such kids become persons non grata (plenty unwelcome) in all circles.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and family, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coins and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers is glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tips for Parents

HELEN R. HEWSON

Her topic was "Have women made the grade?" She declared that women have made the grade, in many respects but they have not made it on the home front.

The speaker was a distinguished visitor who recently visited Canada, Lady Ravensdale of Kedelston, one of five of Lords.

She has worked with boys' and girls' clubs in the east end of London for 48 years.

"Home life has gone out of the window. There are young married women today who do not want the responsibility of children. They want freedom and women sit in the House of Lords."

"Home life has gone out of the window. There are young married women today who do not want the responsibility of children. They want freedom and women sit in the House of Lords."

These are the observations of a lively, intelligent woman who has had long experience in many areas of community life.

She believes that the home and our young people are our most important assets but as women have gained economic and political advantages they have lost some of their pride in the role of wife and mother.

A few weeks ago another distinguished visitor from England, Sir Geoffrey Vickers, stated: "Parenthood is a skilled profession and those who are most actively practising it (the parents of dependent children) are performing a more important function than any other which is likely to be theirs, now or later."

These two people both believe in the importance of the family and that the family members must derive deep personal satisfaction, a sense of enjoyment and of achievement from their experiences of family life.

In recent years family life has been decried. Parents have been held responsible for most of the ills of society.

If parenthood is really a profession, then parents must be treated as responsible members of a respected group.

Schweitzer: The Living Legend

Straw Boss, Musician Physician and Saint

(Peter Worthington, Canadian correspondent, reports on a visit to Dr. Albert Schweitzer, 85-year-old "living legend" of Africa, in this fourth of five articles.)

By PETER WORTHINGTON

LAMBARENE, Gabon (TNS)

If Dr. Albert Schweitzer's jungle hospital was in Canada it would be immediately shut down by outraged health authorities.

By Canadian standards it is dirty, decrepit, destitute, frightfully overcrowded and resembles a confused combination of slum area and zoo.

But it's not in Canada. It's on the Ogowe River, an hour's canoe trip upriver from the island community of Lambarene in the swampy jungles of French Equatorial Africa.

And here it's a godsend to Africans and whites.

Area residents here prefer it to the modern, clean hospital in town, which functions at less than 40 per cent capacity. Dr. Schweitzer has a hard time making room for new patients.

Whole families move into Dr. Schweitzer's hospital, and patients have the dubious benefit of home-cooked food. Meals are mainly roasted bananas, which look dreadful and smell worse, but are apparently nutritious.

Block of corrugated-iron huts house an unknown number of relatives. Looking in, they seem filthy. Often they are dirtier than they look, for tribesmen don't value sanitation the way we do.

Lambarene village has a population of 3,000 blacks, 60 whites. The hospital and leper colony have about 500 blacks and perhaps 25 whites, including doctors and nurses.

Dr. Schweitzer's philosophy hinges on reverence and respect for life—and all life. In it he sees the only hope for the future of mankind.

To help teach natives kindness toward animals, all sorts of creatures call the hospital home.

It literally swarms with chickens, ducks, goats, dogs, cats, parrots, caged deer, roaming chimpanzees, a baby gorilla and a pelican.

"Normally, Africans are indifferent to any life except the welfare of fellow tribesmen," Dr. Schweitzer said. "I try to encourage natives here to extend tribal feelings to all forms of life."

Despite the noble intention, a hospital seems the wrong place to test these philosophic theories. It's too unsanitary. Goat and chicken smell—and droppings—remind you of a barnyard rather than a medical centre.

Natives seem to regard the hawking, squawking, tame animals more as a food than examples for spiritual guidance.

Patients are grouped in either tribal affiliations or according to their diseases. Tribal groups seem the most satisfactory for patients, who adjust quickly to the easy hospital life.

A large square hut made of heavy timbers is the mental hospital. Doors are padlocked, but demented inmates can see out from their solitary cells.

Hospital Filthy, Successful

Weird yells and noises come from the place.

Other natives shun this area, and children won't go near it.

There is no electricity in the hospital, except for the operating room, which has an arc-light powered by an over-worked motor.

About 800 major operations are performed each year.

Doctors (five of them) and nurses (eight) and administrators (four) are mainly paid volunteers. They get perhaps $10 a month and expenses.

And they are among the most interesting people here. Dr. Freedman, a Czech, bears tattoo marks of Dachau concentration camp, where his whole family died; Dr. Takahashi is a Japanese leprosy expert; Dr. Adler is a Swiss surgeon.

Nurse Mathilde Kottman came here from Germany in 1924. Nurse Maria Lagendijk arrived 22 years ago. Marie-Louise Cullum, an attractive New York girl, came as a tourist last summer and stayed.

The hospital is always heavy with heat and moisture. Breezes seldom reach it. Buildings are sprawled over the hillside. Muddy, refuse-littered paths connect huts.

Huge palm and mango trees are everywhere, and during the nightly rains mangoes clatter onto the tin roofs like exploding grenades.

There is no running water or plumbing. French and German newspapers replace mail order catalogues as outhouse essentials.

Every day at 8 a.m. Dr. Schweitzer personally iterates

Newspaper Drops Pledge to Liberals

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Sun has decided to amend its memorandum of association pledging support for the Liberal party. Shareholders voted to strike all political references from the newspaper's articles of incorporation.

In the last provincial election campaign, Premier Bennett claimed the old articles bound the Sun to support the Liberals.

Quebec Taxes Up

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec government Wednesday proposed in the Legislative Assembly to increase the tax on corporation profits to 12 from 10 per cent, effective Jan. 1, and to increase slightly the provincial tax on personal income.

Patients are grouped in either tribal affiliations or according to their diseases. Tribal groups seem the most satisfactory for patients, who adjust quickly to the easy hospital life.

A large square hut made of heavy timbers is the mental walking invalids to work at digging foundations, making roads or chipping rocks into gravel for concrete mixing. This is how the Africans pay for treatment.

Then the doctor may switch from being a merciful Simon Legree to emulating Bach at his piano. Then he goes to the dispensary to play the part of physician and consultant on everything from family disputes to financial wranglings. He doesn't see the hospital's physical shortcomings.

Even the operating room which is constantly being scrubbed, seems musty, unhealthy and unsanitary.

But despite what outside medical people would—and do—say, you can't argue with facts.

Patients do get well here, they are happy, and they all love Dr. Schweitzer, whether he's in his role of straw boss, musician, physician or saint.

Kennedy To Pick Labor Man

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO counsel Arthur J. Goldberg is president-elect John Kennedy's top choice as his labor secretary and the appointment will be announced shortly barring a last-minute hitch.

Goldberg would be only the second labor secretary picked from the union movement by a Democratic president in the 47-year history of the labor department. The other Democrat to do so was Woodrow Wilson.

Probe Told: Don't Curb Ideas

TORONTO (CP)—Witnesses paraded before the royal commission on publications Wednesday to plead that no recommendations be made that would impede the flow of ideas into Canada.

Dr. Claude Bissell, president of the University of Toronto and chairman of the Canada Council:

"We would join with many others in urging that nothing be done to impede the free flow of ideas. If the multiplicity of periodicals originating in other countries is a source of embarrassment to Canadians . . . in other respects it is a source of great strength; for in few countries in the world there is available such a cornucopia of reading."

Alan Jarvis, chairman of Canadian Art Magazine and former director of the national gallery: "We cannot see how the imposition of taxes or any other protective measure on any foreign periodicals would assist in the enrichment of our cultural life."

Prof. J. L. Wild, head of Journalism, University of Western Ontario, London: "We are dealing with affairs of the mind, with the free flow of information in a society dedicated to that freedom. It matters little whether these Canadian editions are biased or objective, whether the economic competition they represent is fair or unfair . . . it seems to me a grave matter indeed to decree 'thou shall not read this; whether for economic or political reasons."

Blair Fraser, editor of Maclean's magazine, described a "fiction famine" which he said has enveloped Canada. He said Maclean's could not count on more than 15 Canadian stories a year.

Various devices such as $5,000 novel award were introduced to encourage Canadian writers, but Mr. Fraser said no one has won the award since 1957.

In 1958, he said, the editors discontinued regular fiction purchases and no longer read unsolicited manuscripts.

National Bird Contest*Lots Champion Whisky JackBy ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Outdoors Editor

The Canada jay, or Whisky Jack, is winning more friends in the "name the national bird" ballot in the Colonist, but it has a long way to go yet to beat the popular Canada goose.

"He (the jay) is such a friendly bird and a great companion when hiking in out-of-the-way places," writes Miss E. L. Gower, 2026 Fernwood.

T. G. Tuxford, RR 2, Victoria, gives his vote to the Canada jay and adds that "if it is to be the Canada goose, I say anyone caught shooting it should be subject to heavy penalty."

Mrs. Anne Crossland, of Port Alberni, gives her vote to the Canada goose. "Let's not be like the Americans and pick a bird that is violent and only a nuisance," she says. "... The family life of the goose is to be admired and the jay is known for his thieving and mischief."

Prairie School Car Hits Side of Train

ST. JEAN BAPTISTE, Man. (CP)—A car carrying nine school children ran into the side of a passenger train Wednesday at a level crossing near this community 35 miles south of Winnipeg. Three persons were injured.

Alphonse Beaudette, 40, driver, suffered a head laceration and Marcel Rojotte, 7. However, it was believed fog received a face cut. The boy's might have contributed to the injuries.

RCMP said the road was icy. Great Northern Railway of the warning signal lights were coated with frost and the car was heading into the glare of the rising sun.

Quebec Ministers Drop 'Honorable'

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Jean Lesage has started a move to drop the word honorable from in front of the names of cabinet ministers and former cabinet ministers in summaries of Legislative Assembly business.

The change was one of several recommended by a linguistics committee of the legislature press gallery.

Thousands To March

MONTREAL (UPI)—Several thousand students will take part in a March on Ottawa on Christmas Day to demand preservation of Canada's status as a non-nuclear country, it was announced yesterday.

Ambrose SmallMissing Millionaire File Thrown Away

TORONTO (CP)—A file of yellowed papers was discarded Wednesday, and that finally closed Toronto police's books on missing millionaire Ambrose Small, one of the most baffling cases of the century.

Mr. Small, a Toronto theatre magnate, vanished 41 years ago this month, on Dec. 2, 1919—the day that he received a $1,000.00 cheque for some of his properties.

MANY COUNTRIES

Since then, the search has touched many countries, spurred by a whopping $50,000 reward. Scores of claimants sent in tips that kept Toronto detectives scurrying around to look at bodices, none of which had the twisted toes that were a distinguishing mark of Mr. Small.

If Mr. Small is alive today, he is 94. One of the few men still living who worked on the investigation initially is 93-year-old Samuel Dickson, chief constable here in 1919.

Mr. Small's wife died in 1935, leaving an estate of $2,000,000 which went mostly to charity.

Another person close to Small—his long-time secretary, John Doughty—died in 1949. Doughty disappeared about the same time as Small, along with $105,000 in bonds from his employer's safety deposit box.

CHIPMAN, Alta. (CP)—The fund for children injured in the Lamont school bus-train crash has reached $6,000 and the Lions Club says it shows no sign of slowing down.

Seventeen high school students were killed when their bus was hit by a fast freight train Nov. 29 at a level crossing in Lamont, 45 miles northeast of Edmonton. Twenty-three students and the driver were injured.

Captured in an Oregon lumber camp, Doughty went to jail for four years and nine months.

The file on the Small case had grown to about three feet thick when it finally went into the discard.

Aim New Party At Consumers Britain Urged

LONDON (CP)—An entirely new political party, aimed at the man who pays the shot, is being proposed for Britain.

The idea is outlined in a pamphlet which argues that in all advanced countries people's interests, and therefore policies, are switching toward consumption and away from production.

SOCIAL GRAVITY

Shorter working hours, greater mechanization of labor and higher standards of living are causing this change in "social gravity," says author Michael Young.

The pamphlet, echoing the title of a wartime poem about embattled Britain, is "The Chipped White Cups of Dover." Author Young is the founder of a number of institutions, including the Consumers' Association.

DRINK, SPORTS

"Men used to keep a substantial part of their earnings to themselves to spend on drink, tobacco, pools and sports," says Young, who describes himself as a life-long Labor supporter.

But television sets and other durable goods have returned men to the family—"at home men are not men but husbands."

People are beginning to think of themselves as consumers first and secondly as

Motiveless Murderers Most Troubled Mentally

LONDON (AP)—The sudden murderers who kill without apparent reason usually have abnormal brain activity, British researchers report.

They charted the electrical activity in the brains of known murderers in English prisons. Among those who murdered while trying to commit some other crime, one in four showed brain abnormalities.

Hydro Energy Policies 'Concern of Everyone'

In an industrial economy the abundance of cheap electricity is likely to govern the rate of productivity and the standard of living. B.C. Hydro's load development director Charles W. Nash told Victoria Kiwanis Club members this week.

He said this was the central reason for promoting greater use of electrical energy.

"The policies that shape the electrical energy business are the concern of everyone because the customers, the public, are the ones who must pay the price of energy for sale," said Mr. Nash. "The idea that the utility business does not need market development because it is in the nature of a monopoly is far from the truth."

The only way to keep electric rates down in the face of rising costs, he maintained, was to explore every means of increasing the energy output without raising plant capacity.

Holiday Party Givers Advised to Take Care

There's more to giving a party than merely entertaining one's guests. The modern hostess should also concern herself with their safety, declares Mrs. E. J. Roylance, Greenwood, B.C., president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada.

Calling attention in a pre-holiday statement to dangers inherent in Christmas and New Year parties, Mrs. Roylance claimed that by taking a little extra care Canadian housewives can help to make all parties end happily.

Too often household bound-guests never reach their destination. In mounting traffic accidents, hundreds of Canadians end the holiday season injured or dead. Yet many of these accidents need not have occurred had the hostess shouldered more responsibility," said the head of the Women's Institutes.

"Family reunions and other events are such a blending of stimulation and year-end fatigue, of tension and relaxation, that the evening often ends on a note of incitement. Far too late and far too tired, guests leave the party drowsily and in no shape to be alert at the wheel."

To lessen this danger, Mrs. Roylance issued the following suggestions to holiday party givers:

1. Always have food available for your guests—not heavy dishes that may make them sluggish, but plenty of spreads and dips and cold cuts and cheese.

2. Should some of your guests arrive after having taken alcoholic drinks, give them swiftly two cups each of coffee, and make it strong.

3. Ask one of your guests to tune in to weather reports. If the storm shows no sign of letting up, it may be wise to invite those guests who live far away to stay at your home overnight.

4. Help all your guests to stay alert on the way home by serving them coffee around the end of the evening.

5. Remember to place a plastic windshield scraper on the hall table, lest some of the guests have forgotten to bring theirs with them.

"With ice and drifts, dense snowfall and sleet making driving most hazardous, the careful hostess will do all she can to keep her guests alert and alive," concluded Mrs. Roylance.

Future Capital Now in Past

LULUABOURG (AP)—The jungle is creeping in on this city once chosen to be the Congo's capital.

Of the European population of 3,000, less than 200 remain. Most seem to have given up the struggle to keep the city going. "The only reason I'm still here is that everything I own is here and I can get none of it out," one Belgian said.

PLAN FORGOTTEN

Luluabourg, 500 miles east of Leopoldville, was to become the seat of the national government under a pre-independence plan. The plan has been forgotten together with a hundred other development projects.

Unemployed Congolese stand at street corners.

Piles of garbage on the sidewalk spill over into the street.

COINLESS JUKE BOX

African boys and girls jive all day to a coinless juke box in the bar of the Hotel Atlanta, once the hangout of rich white settlers.

White shopkeepers have fled. Cobwebs and thick layers of dust are visible through unshaded store windows.

Some shops are filled with radio sets, washing machines, accordions, calculating machines, all covered with dust and as useless as a mink coat in the desert.

Simple necessities like toothpaste and cigarettes are almost unobtainable.

Squatters' families occupy most of the white settlers' villas.

"This house belongs to us Congolese now," said one squatter in a villa with an empty, debris-cluttered swimming pool.

"That's what independence means, isn't it?"

Kresge's Bankroll Thief Went on 'Quite a Party'

Charged with theft of $4,391 in cash and $39 in cheques, John Harper, 18, of 1203 Blanchard, a stock clerk for S. S. Kresge Co. Ltd., pleaded guilty in city police court yesterday.

He was remanded to Dec. 21 for probation report and sentence after circumstances were outlined by Det. Norman Bath.

MPs Adjourn For 26 Days

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament will adjourn from Dec. 21 to Jan. 16. Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced yesterday in the Commons.

Def. Bath said $2,440 in cash had been recovered, including $30 in 50-cent pieces which, with the bag, had been thrown into the Inner Harbor near the CPR dock.

SMALL AMOUNT

Harper had a small amount of the cash with him, and $1,810 was recovered from another youth.

The detective said Harper had cut a slit in his coat lining, allowing the bag and its contents to drop out of sight.

Later he gave the money to two friends to keep for him. One used $1,290 to buy a car—a bright red coupe with "Bloody Mary" painted on the side. He also bought a $100 radio and clothing worth $35.

U.K. 'Baby Case' Ends in Divorce

LONDON (Reuters) — A British wife was granted a divorce Tuesday—39 years after her husband tried to divorce her because she had a baby 11 months after he left the country.

The 1921 divorce case of Leonard and Kathleen Gaskill made legal history as "the case of the 331-day baby."

SUED FOR DIVORCE

Gaskill sued for divorce, charging his wife had committed adultery with an unknown man after he had been shipped to Greece as a soldier in the First World War.

VIENTIANE (Reuters) — after failing to dislodge right-Communist-backed forces wing invaders in a fierce counter attack along the Laotian capital's main streets.

The uncertainty of the situation was underlined at the police headquarters where soldiers wearing the red arm-bands of defenders surrendered to the white-band invaders.

The surrendering soldiers were handed white armbands so they could join the right-wing attack.

As the battle raged in the streets of Vientiane, Phoumi's forces were reinforced by soldiers under the command of Col. Khousavith Abhay.

Saanich Teachers Ask 8 Per Cent

Salary adjustments designed to prevent loss of Saanich teachers to surrounding districts were requested at an arbitration board hearing yesterday. Teachers are asking for an 8 per cent increase.

The raise would boost the salary bill by $49,000.

TRUSTEES' REPLY

Trustees replying to teachers' demands said present economic conditions did not justify an increase. They called on teachers to show:

1. That the 1960 salary adjustment was not fair in 1960 therefore would not be fair in 1961.

2. That economic conditions had so changed that the 1960 salary award would not give a fair return in 1961.

APPRECIATE BURDEN

Teachers' negotiating chairman D. W. Robb told the board that teachers were taxpayers at the provincial and local levels and so appreciated the burden carried by taxpayers.

They know however that the board appreciates the importance of an adequately remunerated profession, since it is, in fact, the nursery of all professions.

Trustees representative Alan Baker said adequacy of salaries could best be tested by checking into the number of students turning to a teaching career. He said teaching registrations had increased 164 per cent during the past four years.

BIG WEAKNESS

Greatest weakness of the present scale lies in the low maximum salaries which fully-trained teachers with long experience may be expected to earn, said D. W. Robb.

"It is the long term aim of the teachers to increase the pattern of increments to a point where the maximum salary will be in the region of twice the minimum."

He said teachers hoped that any increase awarded might be applied with this end in view.

"Such a pattern would attract new recruits to teaching and would retain the loyalty of the senior teacher," he said.

DECISION BINDING

Ruling of the arbitration board will be presented when cases presented by both sides have been studied. The decision is binding on both parties.

Fewer Jobs Predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—AFL-CIO research director Stanley Ruttenberg predicted yesterday that unemployment will rise to about 6,000,000 in the U.S. early next year. He called for short-term tax reductions to deal with it. He said that even if the economy started to grow at an accelerated pace, large sections of the country will still be in distress."

He said teachers hoped that any increase awarded might be applied with this end in view.

"Such a pattern would attract new recruits to teaching and would retain the loyalty of the senior teacher," he said.

Chilly Senate Air Leaves Tory Cold

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator John Haig wants somebody to do something about cold draughts in the Upper Chamber.

"As I sit in my seat in this chamber I suffer from a draught of cold air which sweeps down on me," the Manitoba Progressive Conservative complained in the Senate Wednesday. "I have contracted a cold."

Sometimes he left the chamber early and government leader Walter Asseltine frequently asked him why.

"I have to tell him that I am going to get warm," Senator Haig said.

Railway Mail Veteran Succumbs to Attack

Francis Walter Wilson, 68, of 1209 Finlayson, veteran of 35 years in the railway mail service, died yesterday while on his way to Christmas work at the Victoria post office.

He is believed to have suffered a heart attack about 10:30 a.m. while on a Lake Hill bus.

Mr. Wilson and his wife, Margaret, came to Victoria from Winnipeg five years ago, on his retirement.

Other survivors include two daughters, Mrs. D. R. Burton, Winnipeg and Mrs. H. Tilson, Toronto, Ont.; a sister in Toronto and eight grandchildren.

Red Subs Boom

LONDON (UPI)—Russia has amassed more submarines than all the rest of the world, including at least a half dozen atomic subs built or being built, the authoritative "Jane's Fighting Ships" said yesterday.

The Soviet submarine program, naval experts said, was based on a strategy, should war come, of setting out to sweep the seas clear of shipping and starve America's NATO allies into submission.

NEW EDITION

The new edition of Jane's, the "bible" of the world naval power, placed the number of Soviet submarines at between 450-500, including at least six nuclear-powered and six guided missile underwater craft either built or under construction.

It said the United States has 173 submarines, 17 of them nuclear-powered and with three equipped to launch missiles.

The United States has 38 nuclear subs built or under construction, with a goal of 75 operational nuclear subs planned by 1967.

In a grim foreword to the 63rd edition published yesterday, editor Raymond Blackman underlined that little more than one-fifth of the number of submarines Russia possess in World War II was "enough to bring the United Kingdom to the brink of starvation, not only as regards food but as regards the vital raw materials necessary to prosecute the war."

With his respected sources of information, editor Blackman denounced as "ostrich-like" the attitude in some quarters that atomic craft are at present beyond Russian capabilities.

Plucky Joan Midlane, 16, 1621 Jubilee, holds a toy gun similar in size to the gun thrust at her by a hold-up man.—(Colonist photo.)

Foiled Holdup Ends in Chase

A roaring, high-speed chase through downtown streets climaxed a hold-up attempt at a city grocery last night which was foiled by a 16-year-old girl clerk.

Streets were still clogged with the last of the rush-hour traffic when the fugitive car careened through the centre of town hotly pursued by a police car.

Joan Midlane, 16, Jubilee, was tending the Palm Grocery Store at Bay and Blanshard for Mrs. E. L. Askew at 5:30 p.m. when the bandit pointed a gun at her stomach and demanded money.

MAN CHARGED

Police arrested a 21-year-old Esquimalt man last night and said he will be charged with attempted robbery this morning. The man reported his car stolen only minutes after the suspect car was found by police on South Turner in the James Bay area.

Det. Dean Blackstock was called into the chase while driving through the area near the grocery. He chased the fleeing car—which went wrong-way around the Fountain Circle—down Government, along Belleville, down Menzies to Superior to Montreal and up Simcoe. He lost his quarry when the driver turned off his headlights.

SCARED AWAY

Plucky Miss Midlane scared the thief away by pressing a buzzer to summon help from the owner in the rear residence.

Miss Midlane said she was filling a bag with onions from one of the store counters when the man came in and walked towards her.

She walked back towards the counter and cash register.

"When I got to the counter and turned, he was there in front of me with one of our paper bags and pointing a gun at my stomach."

PRESS BUZZER

"The first thing I could think of was to press the buzzer," she said.

The buzzer is used to summon Mrs. Askew, who lives in a house behind the store.

Mrs. Lawrie Carroll, 840 Bay, visiting her mother, Mrs. Askew, said she answered the buzzer call and met Miss Midlane at the store's rear door.

"Joan said there was a robber." I went into the store and then chickened out and called to my husband Lawrie, but by the time he came the man had gone out," Mrs. Carroll said.

Lawrie said his "courage was reinforced" by Steven-son's selection as UN ambassador.

Victim Escapes In Kidnap Car

EVERETT, Wash. (AP)—A 17-year-old banker's daughter was safe and unharmed yesterday after escaping from an unkempt, middle-aged man she said bungled a $25,000 kidnap attempt.

The girl, Hazel Irene Oelrich, a Sultan high school senior, told authorities she got away from her knife-wielding captor after a harrowing 90 minutes as his prisoner this morning.

The greying, poorly dressed man seized the girl as she was leaving for school.

She sped home in the kidnapper's car after he had telephoned the ransom demand from Monroe, 20 miles east of here, and then instructed her to drive toward Everett while he followed in another auto.

Oelrich was told to place $25,000 in unmarked bills in a telephone booth at a Monroe service station if he wanted to see his daughter again. Oelrich left $2,000 in an envelope at the booth. It was never picked up.

The stocky, blonde teen-ager turned up safely as a massive hunt was being mobilized by sheriff's officers, FBI agents and local police. No trace of the kidnapper had been found.

Girl Survives Under Train

CHENOAH, Ill. (AP)—Thirty cars of a freight train passed over Margaret Cleary, 15, at a crossing Wednesday. She escaped unharmed.

Margaret, who was crawling under the train to catch a school bus when the train came, flattened herself between the rails.

City Man In Midst Of Revolt

A former Colonist reporter who learned his political footwork from two nimble B.C. premiers may need all his agility today to dance his way out of an Ethiopian coup in which he seems to be on the losing side.

Percy C. Richards, one-time executive assistant to Liberal premiers Byron L. Johnson and the late John Hart, is managing editor of a newspaper which is linked politically to deposed Emperor Haile Selassie.

But in Victoria a former confidante of the "Lion of Judah" who asked that he remain anonymous said the apparent victim of the so-far bloodless coup d'etat may have masterminded the whole incident himself.

This would put Mr. Richards on the winning side.

NO SUCCESSION

The Colonist's informant said that for many years the emperor has been plagued by the thought that there are no firm laws of succession in Ethiopia which would maintain his family's reign.

In the coup which took place yesterday while the emperor is visiting Brazil he was deposed by his son, Crown Prince Asfa Wosene.

OLD FOX

"It might well be that the old fox has told his son to take control while he was out of the country, and thus ensure that the post of emperor remains in his family," said the informant.

Mr. Richards is managing editor of the "Voice of Ethiopia," a patriotic organ which is published in English and Amharic and which hews closely to the Haile Selassie regime's national policies.

NO DANGER

As such, according to such experts on Ethiopian affairs as Dr. Neil Perry, governor of the Ethiopian state bank from 1951 to 1956 and now head of UBC's commerce faculty, he is

Belgians Hail Newlyweds

BRUSSELS (AP)—King Baudouin of Belgium wed Dona Fabiola of Spain today, giving this nation of 9,000,000 its first queen in 25 years.

At 9 a.m. (midnight PST) a lackey in regal red and gold livery marched into the throne room of the Brussels palace.

Miss Midlane said she was filling a bag with onions from one of the store counters when the man came in and walked towards her.

She walked back towards the counter and cash register.

With five kings, four queens, 46 princes and princesses and other members of nobility looking on, the burgomaster read the articles of the civil marriage.

After the civil ceremony,

Baudouin and Fabiola proceeded to the Gothic Church of Saints Michel and Gudule as thousands cheered along packed streets decorated with Belgian and Spanish flags.

This spirit of giving by those who have little to those who have less plays an important part in 500 Christmas Fund beneficiaries.

The great success it has been since it was started five years ago.

Every list of contributions to the Colonist 500 Christmas Fund contains a number of small donations. In many cases they are from pensioners and people with limited incomes. Most of them could use the money they donate themselves but would rather give to see that the Victoria area's 500 most needy families are looked after.

Enclosed please find $2. I would like to make it more but I am only a pensioner. I hope this will help a little." The note was unsigned.

Through the efforts of individuals like these, each of the 500 needy families chosen through the area's welfare agencies last year received

$20.95. The cheques arrived in plenty of time to allow purchases of the few extras that mean so much at Christmas.

Donations should be addressed to The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund and mailed or brought in to the main office at 2631 Douglas Street or the downtown office at 1215 Broad Street.

Arbitrators Unanimous

By IAN STREET

Unanimous ruling of a three-man arbitration board yesterday that some 820 Greater Victoria school teachers receive no salary increase for 1961 was hailed with delight by trustees and municipal officials.

The board—chairman O. M. Prentice, teacher nominee J. Alan Baker and trustee nominee W. R. McIntyre—deliberated for little more than 24 hours before handing down its findings. The ruling doesn't affect normal salary increases.

It said the present salary scale for teachers is "adequate and fair" for 1961 bearing in mind existing conditions and arguments advanced by both sides in the salary dispute.

Teachers during the arbitration hearing Monday and Tuesday morning produced "nothing . . . to show economic circumstances that would justify any change" in salary, the board said in its written report.

Angels and Senators Pick Their Lineups

BOSTON—Los Angeles Angels and the new Washington Senators became a part of the major baseball league scene yesterday when they picked their rosters from lists of 15 submitted by the eight other American League clubs.

But while each of the new clubs spent the staggering amount of $2,100,000 for the 28 players they were allowed, neither roster was likely to cause the defending-champion New York Yankees any loss of sleep.

There just wasn't too much available for the two newcomers, who will start play in a 10-team league next spring, despite the $75,000 price tag slapped on each player.

There were a number of name players, but few with more than one or two good seasons left at most—players like Gene Woodling, Dick Donovan, Dale Long, Bobby Shantz, Bob Cerv, Ed Yost, Ted Kluszewski, Ned Garver, Johnny Klippstein, Tom Sturdivant and a few others.

There was some promising talent—Jerry Casale, Eli Grba, Ken Hunt, Ken Aspromonte and a few others. There were border-line players such as Willie Tasby, Earl Averill, Marty Keough, Billy Klaus, Duke Maas, Dave Sisler, Hal Woodschick and a few others.

And then there were those practically unknown outside of the minor leagues, they played in last season—Aubrey Gatewood, Bob Sprout, Don

Double-Fullback Offence Abandoned by Eskimos?

Hints that the days of double fullback, ball-control football of the Frank Ivy era are at an end for Edmonton Eskimos came out of the club's annual meeting last night.

Club president Gordon Wynn told 300 members of the Touchdown Club that he believed the fans "would see a great difference next year in Eskimos' style of play." Presumably this is because star fullbacks John Bright and Norm Kwong have both hinted they won't be back next year. Kwong may stick to retirement plans and Bright is looking for a coaching berth with Calgary Stampeders.

The team is also making every effort to get U.S. college players who were born in Canada and would therefore not be classed as imports. General-manager Joe Ryan has written to more than 200 players asking if their parents or they themselves were born in Canada.

Eskimos operated at an estimated net profit of $1,586 for the season and officials said the only thing that saved the team was the extra revenue from the Grey Cup final. In 1959 there was a net loss of $21,927. Attendance was down about 10,000 and season ticket sales dropped by about 700.

LEO DUROCHER has charged that there is a conspiracy among club owners to keep him from getting back into baseball, and denied that he was ever even offered the position of manager of the new Los Angeles Angels. Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League have sent rink winger Bob Goebel to Sudbury Wolves of the Eastern Professional Hockey League for experience, replacing him with Dennis Rathwell, who has been playing with Spokane Comets under a loan arrangement . . . the newly-formed Kelowna-Penticton entry in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League will play its first game tomorrow night against Vernon Indians in Kelowna . . . Walt Peacock, who was with Penticton, has joined Trail Smoke Eaters of the Western International Hockey League along with Darryl Sly, a forward with Gault Terriers of the Ontario Senior Hockey Association.

SAM ETCHEVERRY, still undecided about his 1961 football plans after being traded to Hamilton by Montreal, will let his new employers know what he plans to do next week . . . Almost 8,000 curlers across Canada will take part in the Canadian Legion's curling playoffs this year. Finals are in Trail, March 14-18 . . . Chicago White Sox won the American League fielding championship last season, fifth time in the last six years . . . Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen will join the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union again next season after a one-year's absence. They'll be a farm team for Montreal Alouettes. Jacques Plante, Montreal Canadiens goalie, learned Wednesday that the injury to his right leg is damaged ligaments. There is no indication when he will be able to return to action . . . Communist East Germany has protested that the United States refused a visa to Olympic ski jump champion Helmut Recknagel to visit the U.S. to accept a medal.

However, Wynn told the meeting that Halter had said at a recent meeting of WIFU executives that referees and officiating would result in better attendance at western interprovincial football union games.

Wynn told the woman she would receive "quite an argument from Halter (Canadian Football League Commission G. Sydney Halter of Winnipeg) if he was here."

Wynn told the meeting that Halter had said at a recent meeting of WIFU executives that referees and officiating would result in better attendance at western interprovincial football union games.

Wynn said officials were blowing the whistle to stop play before the play actually had ended. He said the referees were anticipating the play.

Gutoski Rolls Along In Curling Playoffs

Tony Gutoski, Steve Marshall, Larry Marshall, Gordie Moore, Eric Bullock, Elmer Hoffman, Bill McLean, Gerry Walls, Sam Rycroft

Only three rinks were left with a chance of catching up beaten Tony Gutoski last night in the nine-rink playdowns to decide which rink will represent Victoria Curling Club in the BC championships.

Eliminated last night were Eric Bullock and Bill McLean, both losing their third games. Previously eliminated were Elmer Hoffman, Gerry Walls and Sam Rycroft.

Gutoski, easily defeating Rycroft, 11-4, won his sixth straight game and has only two left to play.

Staying alive along with the Gordie Moore and Larry Marshall, both winning their fourth game in six starts. It could all be decided Monday when Gutoski and Hayhurst meet. If Hayhurst should defeat Gutoski, he will play against Moore and Hayhurst against Bullock.

Marshall stayed in the running with a 12-6 win over Bullock and Moore kept in the hunt with an 8-7 win over Walls in the night's only close game. In the other game, Hoffman eliminated McLean, 8-1.

Moore barely staved off elimination. He was three up starting the tenth, but Walls

Cougars Post 4-2 Win Vacate League Cellar

EDMONTON — Victoria Cougars, who just missed at Calgary on Tuesday night, overcame a two-goal deficit here Wednesday night to defeat Edmonton Flyers, 4-2, in Western Hockey League.

It was the fourth straight loss for the skidding Flyers, who have lost nine and won three games since they were selected by owners at a league meeting as the club to beat.

And it was once more the Edmonton defence which was to blame. It has leaked for 52 goals in the last 12 games and Dennis Riggan, who is of all-star stature, is having difficulty keeping his goals against average below four a game.

In the 25 games his club has played before, Riggan has stopped 800 shots while missing on 97. Two other goals were scored when he was taken off for a sixth attacker. But the Cougars, who gave up 23 goals in the four games which constituted their only losing streak of the season, gave Marcel Pelletier a lot of help with their forechecking and a defense which has been bolstered by the addition of Georges Roy, colorful French-Canadian veteran.

ONLY FIVE

In their last three games, of which they won two, the Cougars have yielded only five goals.

Flyers got away to a big start when rookie Bruce McGregor scored on a power play in the first period and Brian Smith, down from the parent Detroit Red Wings, made it 2-0 in the latter part of the period.

But the Cougars, who gave up 23 goals in the four games which constituted their only

That was all. Veteran Elliott Chorley, who played a steady game, got the Victoria club close when he scored late in the second period on assists from Roy and rookie Don Wilson.

POWER-PLAY GOAL

Gerry Goyer tied it up on a power-play early in the third period as the visitors continued to carry the play. Doug Macauley got what proved to be the winner at 10:58 and after Pelletier had come up with two or three fine stops as Flyers pressed for the tying goal, Ford hit the unguarded net with the clinching shot only 84 seconds from time.

Portland Buckaroos, at full gallop now in their race toward the top of the Western Hockey League, swept to their seventh straight victory last night with a 6-3 win over last-place Winnipeg Warriors at Portland.

Unbeaten since they lost 5-2, to Cougars in Victoria, Nov. 22, Buckaroos have won seven of their eight games at the new Portland Memorial Coliseum. Warriors have lost 10 and tied one of their last 12 games.

Spokane Comets, beginning to look a bit more dangerous these days, spanked Seattle and Art Jones each scored once. Lorne Davis, Barrie Ross and Ted Green scored for Warriors.

Buckaroos are now just four points behind the second place Vancouver Canucks and hold three games in hand. They trail Calgary by six points, but have seven games in hand.

Both Purchasers and City Poor Will Benefit

Greater Victoria's needy families will benefit and so will the purchasers when these toys and hundreds of others are put up for auction at Maynard's auction rooms—Tuesday afternoon and evening.

500 FundMore Toys
Needed
For Sale

Toys donated for a giant auction at Maynard's are coming in at a fair pace, manager Roy Ashworth said last night, but there is room for many more.

Donating toys to the auction will help the 500 most needy families in the area. Proceeds from the auction go directly to The Daily Colonist 500 Christmas Fund.

The auction will be under the direction of Arthur Roberts, Jr., aided by Colonist carriers, and will be held at Maynard's on Johnson Street Tuesday afternoon and evening.

By bringing a toy to the Kinsmen Giant Bingo game on Monday, players will help the 500 fund as well as becoming eligible for a Christmas turkey. Toys from the bingo game will be taken to Maynard's for Tuesday's giant auction.

Kinsmen have offered a number of turkeys for a raffle during the bingo game. Price of a ticket is a toy.

A total of $706.68 brought in by last year's toy auction helped push the 500 Fund up to the $10,475 mark, making it possible for each of Greater Victoria's 500 most needy families to receive a cheque for $20.95.

RCAF Chief
To Probe
Moonlighting

COURTENAY (CP) — Group Capt. Robert Miller, commanding officer of Comox RCAF station, said Wednesday he will question every airman in his command today to see how many moonlighters he has on the payroll.

He said he won't stop them from working at outside jobs but intends to prove false accusations by the local council of the unemployed that scores of his men are depriving unemployed civilians of work.

As for working RCAF wives, he will do nothing "because most are supplying qualifications badly needed by employers, and anyway I believe that they have a right to work."

NANAIMO — The waters of rain-swollen rivers today were abating after a week of rain, gales and flood damage at upper Vancouver Island points.

Traffic now is moving over the Trent River Bridge, three miles south of Courtenay at Royston on Highway 19, after rampaging waters had sent a log jam smashing against the structure, forcing highway department crews to close it to traffic.

At Courtenay six feet of water at Lewis Park was running off through the drainage system which joins it to the Courtenay river.

Two families at Royston and one woman at Courtenay whose homes were in danger of being flooded returned home as the water level fell.

No flood damage was reported at Port Alberni despite a 5.25 inch rainfall within a 20-hour period which saw the Somass River almost reach flood proportions.

However, the Alberni-Tofino road has been closed to the public because of flooding.

In the Nanaimo area no damage was reported during a week of rain but low lying areas were under water and a few houses were flooded.

DUNCAN — Judge Arnold Hannah reserved judgment yesterday in a civil action between a blacksmith and a lawyer who are seeking damages from each other as the result of an accident here two years ago.

Lawyer Herbert Ivens, of Ladner, claimed $566 for damages to his car in an accident south of here on the Trans-Canada highway on March 18, 1959.

He claimed that Jens Hansen, Lakes Road, cut sharply left in front of him without giving a signal. Hansen, represented by A. I. MacDonald, entered a counter-claim for $270 and said his turn signals were on.

GANGES — First turkey shoot on the recently completed range of Salt Spring Island Rod and Gun Club, drew 25 members, but owing to weather conditions only six shots took place. Winners were Herb Skuce, P. Frattinger, D. G. Crofton, Stanley Rogers, Mrs. Ellen Bennett, Larry Anderson and L. Lorentzen.

The next shoot will be held Sunday commencing at 11 a.m. Refreshments will be available.

DUNCAN — A woman who parked beside a curb marked with a solid line of paint got off lightly in court yesterday—but others won't.

Mrs. Miriam M. Latoski, resident here, admitted being illegally parked and said, "I'm thoroughly ashamed." Sentence was suspended for six months.

Police said she parked in front of the post office in a space reserved for vehicles using the curbside mailbox. There had been numerous complaints and a traffic problem.

"The lines are there for the definite purpose of controlling traffic," said Magistrate A. C.

The trees were being cut in a mill at Victoria recently and the spikes damaged the sawmill machinery. Parts and labor cost $380.

LADYSMITH — Ladysmith and District Choral Society presented a Christmas concert of sacred music under leadership of Catherine Alexander. ATCM. Accompanist was Mrs. E. King.

Latter half of the program was devoted to carols.

Special guest artists were Herald Kelly, violinist, of Ladysmith, and festival winners Sharon and Donald Stevenson of Nanaimo. Miss Stevenson sang The Lord's Prayer and young Donald chose Christopher Robin, followed by "O King of Great Worth."

Soloists of the choral group were Linda Howe, Chemainus;

Surviving are a brother, Dr. F. E. Pettman, at Vernon; and a sister, Mrs. Bertha Steele, Vancouver; and nieces and nephews.

DUNCAN — This district's hospital construction committee has dropped plans of having a new hospital here in the shape of a cross in favor of a T-shaped building.

Coun. Tony Staples told North Cowichan council yesterday that it had been dropped for several reasons, but that a major one was cost.

In a release yesterday, the construction committee claimed the new design would "facilitate expansion in the future if necessary" and that "a great deal of angle construction (will be) eliminated."

Municipal Reeve Donald Morton complimented the committee on its work and stated that now it is coming up with results.

New plans include the use of corridors for typical nursing units and double corridors for pediatric and operating areas, as well as the maternity ward.

Soil tests at the new Gibbons Road hospital site showed no rock formations "therefore no problems will arise in planning basement areas or in making driveways."

A meeting of the medical and nursing staff will be held soon to discuss plans and new sketches.

QUALICUM BEACH — Qualicum College rugby team defeated University School's second team recently with a final score of 53-52.

Alan McDermott scored for College by making a spectacular pass-interception early in the first half, and running the length of the field to touch down between the posts. McDermott also converted the try with an accurate kick. Later, University School gained three points from a penalty goal.

Earlier in the morning, the University School junior team won an easy 27-0 victory over the College Coits.

Spikes Driven in War
Now Cost Cowichan $289

NORTH COWICHAN — The army drove spikes into trees near the top of 2,580-foot Mount Prevost during the Second World War and as a result the municipality has to foot a $289.45 bill.

The trees were being cut in a mill at Victoria recently and the spikes damaged the sawmill machinery. Parts and labor cost $380.

Longland Bros. Logging and Trucking Ltd. of Victoria contracted to cut the municipal timber and agreed to pay half of a bill received from B.C. Forest Products Ltd. Municipal forestry consultant F. G. Rainsford suggested that the municipality pay the other portion.

Council agreed yesterday Reeve Donald Morton said he believes the army used the spikes while erecting communication lines.

Fishpond Prowlers Angle
For Christmas Presents

FISHHAPPY SOUGHT: Someone around town is getting his Christmas present the hard way.

Mrs. M. A. Bartkow asks us to warn people with goldfish ponds to watch out for thieves bent on stealing the little creatures. Two days ago someone stole into her property at 1675 Knight Avenue and stole all 11 fish in the outdoor pond.

"They're all outdoor ponds and they won't live in a bowl inside," she said. "I've told the police but of course there is little they can do."

Neighbors later told her they hear prowlers pussy-footing around their properties about 5:30 a.m.

One asset: bilingually the same initials will apply—New Party and Nouveau Partie.

Another interesting point to be decided. Do the existing federal and provincial CCF members automatically become New Partygoers or will they have to be renominated?

NAME CHANGER: Formation of the New Party is not without its headaches and organizers are frankly pleased that there's a goodly period still to go before it becomes a national political reality.

The CCF generally across Canada has not taken the attitude that this is our movement, said the eloquent Mr. Millican.

But the producers overlooked the emcee's script.

The show is punctuated with references as: "No offence is meant to the U.S. Navy" just before a quartet of naval clowns comes on and "we Americans" can produce fine skaters too, just before the entry of an honest-to-goodness U.S. star.

ANY OLD IRON: Victoria Kiwanis Club has come up with a new fund-raising gimmick.

Bins will be placed at service stations for the collection of old licence plates as they are changed after the new year. Drivers will also be asked to contribute coins to the value of the total of the digits in the respective licence plates.

Old plates will be sold for scrap.

MEDIC! MEDIC! Provincial Workmen's Compensation Board passes on this fascinating little vignette from Hamilton's Fire Prevention Week.

A veteran surgeon was passing a trailer when there was a mighty explosion followed by four men tumbling out of the flames. He dropped everything and applied treatment to the ghastly wounds—then did a double take.

The wounds were merely makeup. The four men were just taking part in a fire prevention demonstration.

Cowichan Council

Fishing Safeguard Brings Compliment

NORTH COWICHAN Council was complimented yesterday on its successful efforts to keep a public access road open into one of the best steelhead fishing areas on the Cowichan River.

A letter came from Cowichan Fish and Game Association which claims "public access is shrinking" and that "it won't be many years before our sons have to pay" to get onto what is now public land.

Public access is assured into the area from the south-east corner of the Silver bridge off the Trans-Canada Highway.

Council approved a subdivision plan of the area which guarantees the road will be open. Reeve Donald Morton said of owner James Patterson that "he is quite public-spirited."

Public works committee will look into a suggestion proposed by the Chemainus-Crofton Chamber of Commerce to clear roadside property on the east side of the road near the Crofton boat ramp for a trailer park.

Coun. Gerald Smith asked for the work to be done under the winter works program because it would mean clearing and cutting into a bank.

Reeve Morton gave an interim report on an investigation into charges by a Crofton resident that B.C. Forest Products Ltd. caused flooding of his property.

The reeve said he spent half a day on it. It appears doubtful that the company is responsible, he said, and in any case it is a civil matter. Henry and W. T. Bonsal have claimed in a letter that work on a nearby slope altered the natural drainage.

Only 75 man-days of work have been done under the winter work program, said Coun. Tony Staples, but a boost is expected next month with the 1961 budget.

He said 73 man-days were put in on roads and two on water works.

Council will press for a stop light on the Trans-Canada Highway at James near Duncan after a report that children crossing to schools in the area are having trouble with motorists.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons opposition failed Wednesday to learn when the government plans to reconvene the federal-provincial fiscal conference.

"When the government has available to it information in that regard, it will be brought to the attention of the House immediately," said Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Northumberland Channel

Measured Mile Laid Out For Nanaimo Boat Group

NANAIMO — Federal transport department officials have announced that permanent range markers will be installed to delineate a measured nautical mile laid out in Northumberland Channel recently by the Nanaimo Power Squadron.

A power squadron volunteer work party under the supervision of surveyor L. H. Hinton spent an entire day laying off and marking the measured mile along the bluffs of Gabriola Island.

Latest word received from Toronto and Ottawa indicates compulsory licensing of boat operators will become law in 1962.

REWRITTEN

The new power squadron piloting course is being re-written in such a manner that the first six lectures will cover the government requirements for the operators' exam.

Garth Griffiths, Victoria, who is Vancouver Island district training officer for Canadian power squadrons, was elected to office in the Canadian power squadrons at the recent conference. He will hold the rank of rear commander and it will be his job to revise power squadron courses.

FEW YEARS AGO

Since the Nanaimo squadron was formed a few years ago, over 100 people, both men and mariners.

ADVANCED COURSES

Piloting, seamanship and advanced piloting courses are to be completely re-written with a Canadian content and to avoid duplication. It is also proposed that both the piloting and seamanship course will women, have taken the basic power squadron piloting course in boat handling and navigation. The squadron conducted piloting classes in Ladysmith and Chemainus last year and now has branches operating in those areas.

The Nanaimo squadron is an active participant in the mid-island "search and rescue" organization.

Red Subs Boom

LONDON (UPI)—Russia has amassed more submarines than all the rest of the world, including at least a half dozen atomic subs built or being built, the authoritative "Jane's Fighting Ships" said yesterday.

The Soviet submarine program, naval experts said, was based on a strategy, should war come, of setting out to sweep the seas clear of shipping and starve America's NATO allies into submission.

NEW EDITION

The new edition of Jane's, the "bible" of the world naval power, placed the number of Soviet submarines at between 450-500, including at least six nuclear-powered and six guided missile undersea craft either built or under construction.

It said the United States has 173 submarines, 17 of them nuclear-powered and with three equipped to launch missiles.

The United States has 38 nuclear subs built or under construction, with a goal of 75 operational nuclear subs planned by 1967.

In a grim foreword to the 3rd edition published yesterday, editor Raymond Blackman underlined that little more than one-fifth of the number of subs Russia has in the Second World War was "enough to bring the United Kingdom to the brink of starvation, not only as regards food but as regards the vital raw materials necessary to prosecute the war."

With his respected sources of information, editor Blackman denounced as "ostrich-like" the attitude in some quarters that atomic craft are at present beyond Russian capabilities.

Foiled Holdup Ends in Chase

A roaring, high-speed chase through downtown streets climaxed a holdup attempt at a city grocery last night which was foiled by a 16-year-old girl clerk.

Streets were still clogged with the last of the rush-hour traffic when the fugitive car careened through the centre of town hotly pursued by a police car.

Joan Midlane, 1621 Jubilee, was tending the Palm Grocery Store at Bay and Blanshard for Mrs. E. L. Askew at 5:30 p.m. when the bandit pointed a gun at her stomach and demanded money.

MAN CHARGED

Police arrested a 21-year-old Esquimalt man last night and said he will be charged with attempted robbery this morning. The man reported his car stolen only minutes after the suspect was found by police on South Turner in the James Bay area.

Det. Dean Blackstock was called into the chase while driving through the area near the grocery. He chased the fleeing car—which went wrong-way around the Fountain Circle—down Government, along Belleville, down Menzies to Superior to Montreal and up Simcoe. He lost his quarry when the driver turned off his headlights.

SCARED AWAY

Plucky Miss Midlane scared the thief away with onions from one of the store counters when the man came in and walked towards her.

She walked back towards the counter and cash register.

"When I got to the counter and turned, he was there in front of me with one of our paper bags and pointing a gun at my stomach.

PRESS BUZZER

"The first thing I could think of was to press the buzzer," she said.

The buzzer is used to summon Mrs. Askew, who lives in a house behind the store.

Mrs. Lawrie Carroll, 840 Bay, visiting her mother, Mrs. Askew, said she answered the buzzer call and met Miss Midlane at the store's rear door.

"John said there was a robber. I went into the store and then chickened out and called to my husband Lawrie, but by the time he came the man had gone out," Mrs. Carroll said.

The brown paper bag was found about 10 feet from the store's front door.

Victim Escapes In Kidnap Car

EVERETT, Wash. (AP)—A 17-year-old banker's daughter was safe and unharmed yesterday after escaping from an unkempt, middle-aged man, she said bungled a $25,000 kidnap attempt.

The girl, Hazel Irene Oelrich, a Sultan high school senior, told authorities she got away from her knife-wielding captor after a harrowing 90 minutes as his prisoner during the morning.

The greying, poorly dressed man seized the girl as she was leaving for school.

She sped home in the kidnapper's car after he had telephoned the ransom demand from Monroe, 20 miles east of here, and then instructed her to drive toward Everett while he followed in another auto.

Oelrich was told to place $25,000 in unmarked bills in a telephone booth at a Monroe service station if he wanted to Victoria Man With Losers In Ethiopia?

A former Colonist reporter who learned his political footwork from two nimble B.C. premiers may need all his agility today to dance his way out of an Ethiopian coup in which he seems to be on the losing side.

Percy C. Richards, one-time executive assistant to Liberal premiers Byron I. Johnson and the late John Hart, is managing editor of a newspaper which is linked politically to deposed Emperor Haile Selassie.

But in Victoria a former confidante of the "Lion of Judah" who asked that he remain anonymous said the apparent victim of the so-called bloodless coup d'état may have masterminded the whole incident himself.

This would put Mr. Richards on the winning side.

NO SUCCESSION

The Colonist's informant said that for many years the emperor has been plagued by the thought that there are no firm laws of succession in Ethiopia which would maintain his family's reign.

In the coup which took place yesterday while the emperor is visiting Brazil he was deposed by his son, Crown Prince Asfa Wossen.

OLD FOX

"It might well be that the old fox has told his son to take control while he was out of the country, and thus ensure that the post of emperor remains in his family," said the informant.

Mr. Richards is managing editor of the "Voice of Ethiopia," a patriotic organ which is published in English and Amharic and which hews closely to the Haile Selassie regime's national policies.

NO DANGER

As such, according to such experts on Ethiopian affairs as Dr. Neil Perry, governor of the Ethiopian state bank from 1954 to 1956 and now head of UBC's commerce faculty, he is not likely to be in any physical danger.

But if Emperor Selassie did not plot the coup himself, the former Victorian would probably become "persona non grata" under what appears to be a reform government.

STRICTLY INTERNAL

"Knowing the Ethiopians," said Dr. Perry last night from Vancouver, "it's likely to be a strictly internal affair and it's not likely to have any effect on the European community."

Said the Richards' daughter, Mrs. R. A. Paine, 4849 Townsend, last night, "Mum and dad may be home sooner than we expected."

FOREIGN EDUCATED

A former resident of Addis Ababa said unrest has been fomented in Ethiopia by the return of foreign-educated nationalists who have returned to their homeland dissatisfied with the way in which the country's affairs are administered.

Area Leaders Hail Decision

By IAN STREET

Unanimous ruling of a three-man arbitration board yesterday that some 820 Greater Victoria school teachers receive no salary increase for 1961 was hailed with delight by trustees and municipal officials.

The board—chairman O. M.

Prentice, teacher nominee J. Alan Baker and trustee nominee W. R. McIntyre—deliberated for little more than 24 hours before handing down its findings.

The ruling doesn't affect normal salary increments.

It said the present salary scale for teachers is "adequate and fair" for 1961 bearing in mind existing conditions and arguments advanced by both sides in the salary dispute.

Teachers during the arbitration hearing Monday and Tues-

Matter of Attitude

"It was more a matter of time" on salaries, were quietly jubilant. They resisted the temptation to rub salt into the wound, but one said:

"Teachers asked for more money and got what they deserved."

School board chairman W. C. Gelling said simply that "we are most gratified the arbitration board saw fit to support us in what we honestly believe is the right course for 1961."

He said a "tremendous amount" of credit must go to trustee Kenneth Leeming for the work he did as chairman of the salary committee in presenting the case for the school board.

Very Just Decision

Mayor Percy Scurran offered congratulations to the arbitrators on reaching what "to my mind is a very just decision. They are absolutely right—there is nothing to justify the increase asked by teachers. The fact that no raise was given will be a tremendous help to municipalities in the coming year."

The mayor said he felt taxpayers had "reached the limit of their ability to pay in the present economic situation."

Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay, when he learned of the board's ruling, "I hope this indicates a trend. I'm 100 per cent in favor of anything that will help taxes down."

Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt said the board's ruling was a fair indication of the "all-round trend that people are trying to hold the line on salaries for the coming year."

"I'm sure that I speak for the property owners when I say that the result is most gratifying."

Son Overthrows Haile Selassie

LONDON (AP)—A new Ethiopian government under Emperor Haile Selassie's son was formed Wednesday at Addis Ababa while the King of Kings was thousands of miles away on a state visit to Brazil.

The new regime was proclaimed by Crown Prince Asfa Wossen, 44, as a means to end "3,000 years of injustice."

The announcement broadcast from Addis Ababa left in doubt the future of Haile Selassie, the bearded Coptic Christian known also as "The Holy Lion of Judah." He mounted the
